Allies Hold Talks Over War Plans

President Refuses Any Word of Meeting of Inter-Allied Leaders in Capital

No Date Is Set

Spokesmen to Explore Major Questions of Policy

Washington, Dec. 19 (AP)—President Roosevelt asserted today that conferences had been in progress for a long time—for weeks at least—among the allies combating the Axis.

He would not discuss at his press conference, however, the possibility of an inter-allied command meeting in Washington to work out a common strategy for the conduct of hostilities.

It was learned authoritatively before Mr. Roosevelt met with the press that the United States, Great Britain and Russia were expected to take leading parts in such a meeting soon.

Asked about an appointment he had Wednesday with the Australian minister, the President replied, without elaboration, that they had discussed common defense in a common war.

The participating nations presumably would attempt to coordinate all their military and economic resources to combat German, Japanese, and Italian aggression on fronts which extend around the world.

Diplomatic discussions already under way, he was learned, are designed to clear the way for the proposed conference by reaching preliminary agreements on the most urgent problems which require close collaboration or unified action between the nations.

No Announcement
The state department has made no announcement of the impending conference, and officials today declined any speculation concerning the nations which will participate or the questions to be discussed.

One reliable source reported, however, that while the United States, Great Britain, and Soviet Russia had taken the lead in planning the conference, all nations with independent forces fighting against the Axis—particularly in the Pacific—would probably take part in all deliberations.

China has valiantly resisted Japanese aggression for more than four years, and the Netherlands and the British dominions now are defending strategic outposts in the South Pacific.

The date for the conference has not been set, but in view of the urgency of the situation it is expected that preliminary sessions will be held in January.

The spokesman for the anti-Axis nations, it was learned, will thoroughly explore major questions of policy involving coordination of their military, economic, and political strength to provide the most powerful striking power against the Axis in whatever war theatre it would be most effective.

Maxim Litvinoff, the Soviet's newly arrived ambassador, hinted at the general strategy of the anti-Axis powers when he declared that around the world there were now "separate sectors of one great battlefield."

Treasury Receipts

Board Presses Inquiry on Hawaii Attack

The board of inquiry named to fix the blame for failure of Hawaii's defenders to be on the alert when the Japanese attacked, continued its study in Washington, D. C., after the ranking officers of the island outpost had been relieved of their commands. Members of the board are (left to right): Brig. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, Admiral William H. Standley, Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts of the Supreme Court, Rear Admiral Joseph M. Reeves and Major Gen. Frank Ross McCoy.

Special Meeting Called by Orders From Authorities

Fire Chief Murphy Seeks Effective Response Here at Session Slated for Monday Night

An all-out meeting for instructions on effective action against incendiary bombs will be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock at Central Fire Station, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy announced today.

Chief Murphy said this morning that he was making the announcement under orders from Albany and that he therefore expected an impressive response. The orders explained the chief stressed the fact that citizens must start at once to learn what to do in the event of a bombing and it is the duty of citizens of all communities to assist in taking effective action in preventing widespread damage and destruction in the event of such war emergencies.

All meetings to date, said the chief, have been poorly attended and the meeting Monday night will be a chance for a fresh start. Meetings will be held afterwards if necessary, the chief said, and it is hoped especially that the women of the city will show interest.

Gas Station Burglarized
The Esso gas station on the Plank road, operated by George Johnson, was broken into Thursday night. Entrance was made through a window and a small sum of money, a quantity of oil, gum and peanuts stolen. Deputy Sheriff Vredenburg and Winne made an investigation.

Laura Ingalls, 38, Is Held in Jail For Non-Registration as Nazi Agent

Washington, Dec. 19 (AP)—Laura Ingalls, holder of the women's non-stop speed records for flying both ways across the continent, was held in the District of Columbia jail today on a charge of failing to register as a paid agent of the German government.

Despite her protestation that her mission actually was a one-woman counter-espionage venture, a U. S. commissioner ordered her detained yesterday in lieu of $7,500 bail.

Knox Says 30-Minute Warning Would Have Averted Hawaii Attack

New Raid Signals Given by O'Ryan

A new air raid warning and all clear signal has been ordered by General J. J. O'Ryan, State Director of Civilian Defense.

Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman, chairman of the local defense council, last evening received a telegram, stating that in view of the existing confusion, a uniform signal had been ordered for all communities in the state.

Hereafter, air-raid warnings and all clear signals will be given on fire sirens and air horns, located within the city and in Port Ewen and South Rondout, as follows:

Air-raid: A succession of short blasts five seconds long, with three seconds in between—blasts to continue for two minutes.

All-clear: One continuous blast for two minutes.

Secretary Is Speaker at 1942 Graduation Exercises at U. S. Naval Academy

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 19 (AP)—Secretary Knox, asserting that 30 minutes' warning of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor would have made "all the difference in the world," disclosed today that the third and final wave of enemy bombers met such a devastating barrage that it turned away without hitting a single objective.

The navy secretary, speaker at graduation exercises for the naval academy's class of 1942, said Japan's assault on the great Pacific naval base was a "damning account of infamous treachery" such as "was never recorded in the history of the world."

"There is no question at all, in the light of what transpired," he said, "that half an hour's warning of the approach of the Japanese planes would have made all the difference in the world."

"I say this with considerable confidence because that assault was divided into three attacks. The third assault came two hours after the first one. With all of the resources that were left, we were ready, and that attack never got home."

"It encountered, it it approached Pearl Harbor, such a barrage from every gun and every ship that the enemy planes had to sheer off, and not a single torpedo found its mark or did the slightest damage to our ships or to our equipment ashore."

On the other hand, he told the midshipmen, "we ought to have been on our guard against treachery. If we had studied Japan's record in the war with Russia when, in a similar manner, they descended upon the Russian fleet at a moment when those two nations were still at peace and destroyed that fleet without warning—if we had

Anderson Makes Appointments in Sheriff's Office

Stanley Winne Becomes Under Sheriff; Some of Staff Retain Their Posts

STANLEY M. WINNE

Sheriff-elect Howard C. Anderson today announced the appointment of several persons who will become attached to the office on January 1 when he assumes office as successor to Sheriff Abram F. Molyneux.

For several days rumors have been rife as to the appointments and today Mr. Anderson was unable to give a complete list of all appointments. A new position of assistant day jailer had not yet been filled today. This position was recently created by the Board of Supervisors to provide an additional man for day duty. In the past it has been necessary to hire an extra deputy sheriff by the day. The position of stenographer also has not been filled.

Stanley M. Winne of 268 Washington avenue, present supervisor of the Twelfth Ward and for several years an employee of Everett & Treadwell, has been named under sheriff.

Clayton W. Vredenburg of West Hurley, is retained as jailer. Lyman Ellsworth, Port Ewen, is to remain as night jailer and janitor at the court house.

Herbert Segelken of Phoenicia will remain as assistant day jailer. Leonard Bellmore of Eddyville, town of Ulster, will become assistant night jailer to succeed Charles McCullough of East Kingston, who has been appointed a guard at the Hercules Company plant.

Spain Deals Blow

Madrid Announces Its Non-Belligerent Stand to Axis

(By The Associated Press)
Adolf Hitler's battered invasion armies, reeling in retreat in Russia and North Africa, were reported to have abandoned their Finnish allies today as Soviet dispatches announced huge new gains in the 17-day-old counter-offensive on the central front.

"Reports from Helsinki (the Finn capital) this morning say that all German troops have been withdrawn from Finland in a great hurry," the British radio declared.

The broadcast said Finnish lines had been shattered between Lakes Onega and Ladoga by a Red army drive in the vicinity of the Leningrad-Murmansk railroad.

On the Libyan desert battlefield, British troops were officially reported to have captured Derna airport, 100 miles northwest of Tobruk. Derna itself was said to be still in Axis hands.

British forces were reported advancing "in all directions" west and north of Mekili, 40 miles below Derna, with the Germans and Italians fleeing in two bodies—one heading toward Derna and the other toward Bengasi on the Gulf of Sirte.

The thrust to Derna airport meant that the British had fought their way approximately 195 miles across the desert from the Egyptian frontier since November 18, when the new campaign was launched with American-made tanks and planes.

A British spokesman said imperial troops had captured Gazala, 40 miles west of Tobruk, on Wednesday morning.

In Axis counter blows, Premier Mussolini's high command asserted that Italian torpedo planes and German fliers had hit five British cruisers in the Mediterranean—three in attacks on a major naval formation off the coast of eastern Libya.

Three-Way Drive Being Launched

Half of British Crown Colony of Hongkong Is in Japanese Hands at Present

Malay Gets Rest

Japanese Troops Bog Down in Drive for Singapore

(By The Associated Press)
Japan's sea-borne invasion armies were reported to have unleashed a heavy new offensive against Luzon Island in the Philippines today, while 600 miles distant on the China coast, the fall of the great British stronghold of Hongkong appeared imminent.

A U. S. War Department bulletin reported "a marked increase in enemy air and ground activities" in the Philippine theatre during the past 24 hours.

The War Department gave no details of land operations, but presumably the Japanese were striking out with new fury from their three main beachheads at Aparri, 250 miles north of Manila; Vigan, 200 miles northwest, and Legaspi, 250 miles southeast.

"There was heavy bombing over Manila and over the city of Iloilo on the island of Panay, south of Luzon," the communique said.

Outlining the military situation as of 9:30 a. m., E.S.T., the War Department said there was "nothing to report" from other American-defended areas of the Pacific conflict.

In the siege of Hongkong, a city of 1,000,000 population, fortified at a cost of $40,000,000, Tokyo reports said that Japanese troops in a violent night assault had already captured half of the 32-square mile island.

Report Broadcast
Without confirmation elsewhere, the Japanese-controlled Saigon radio broadcast a report that Japanese troops had captured "the fortress of Hongkong."

Tokyo reports resistance in Hongkong was collapsing and that capture of the city, Britain's No. 2 citadel in the Orient was only a matter of hours.

A Berlin radio broadcast said that Sir Mark Young, governor and commander-in-chief of Hongkong, had escaped from the colony to an unknown destination.

The colonial office in London, however, denied that Sir Mark had fled the besieged colony, declaring that it had been "in telegraphic communication with the governor this morning."

London military sources, acknowledging a Japanese landing in considerable force on the island, reported today:

"Heavy fighting is going on and the position is serious."

Only a comparatively small garrison of British and imperial Indian troops was reported defending the 100-year-old British crown colony, once famed as a pirates' hideaway and in modern times one of the world's major seaports visited by 50,000 ships a year.

The island, with its capital city of Victoria, lies off the China coast at the head of the South China Sea.

Domei, the Japanese news agency, said Japanese troops and bluejackets in a swift three-point invasion had captured Jardine's Hill, rising 1,420 feet in the center of Hongkong Island, after two and one-half hours of fighting and reported that "Japanese guns and planes are furiously battering the enemy."

Dispatches broadcast from Tokyo said Japanese forces, storming across the mile-wide channel separating Hongkong Island from the Kowloon mainland section of the colony, opened the attack at 10 p. m. Hongkong time last night.

Pillboxes Captured

Striking in the darkness, the first landing parties captured shore-line pillboxes in bitter hand-to-hand fighting. The dispatches said, and then set off flares to signal the location of beachheads to reinforcements waiting on the opposite mainland.

"Japanese forces are now pushing the enemy in a mountainous (Continued on Page 19)

Pryor Gives His Views on Concert Bands and Jazz

By WILLIAM PINKERTON

New York, Dec. 19 (Wide World)—Remember "The Whistler and His Dog"—the snappy march that set old men and boys to whistling at band concerts?

We called on the Whistler on a 27-acre farm named Driftwood down in New Jersey. He is Arthur Pryor, the man who was Sousa's solo trombone and became a bandmaster in his own right at 33.

The dog is dead long since. His name was Romy, and Uncle Jack Hughes gave the bulldog to young Pryor decades ago back in St. Joseph, Mo. Romy died after Pryor had left home to seek his fortune as "The Poet of the Trombone," and the march was Romy's memorial.

Other dogs scamper around the bandmaster now. There is Toby, a brown-and-white spaniel, and Boomer and Nancy Lee, a couple of frisky Boston bulls.

"There isn't a copy of the 'Whistler' in the house," Pryor remarked. "I still like it, but it embarrasses me a little because every time we give a concert they want it."

Working at a plain table in his study, however, Pryor has produced a companion piece called "Sammy and His Missouri Mule," which he hopes will relieve the monotony somewhat. "Sammy" has a whistling part, too, and winds up with that old Missouri yell: "Show Me!"

Pryor also is writing his own method for playing the slide trombone, a 40-year project which interests musicians because Pryor was the toast of the two continents when he startled listening musicians with the technical virtuosity of his own "Air Variations."

His golden trombone, whose etched inscription reads "Made for Arthur Pryor by Jake Burkle, 1894," sits on a shelf in the study, and occasionally Pryor plays a few sweet-toned lyrics on it.

But the all-important lip beneath his neatly-groomed mustache is not what it was in the days when shouts of "Pryor, Pryor" caused a riot in a Kansas City concert hall. Some in the crowd heard the shouts as "fire."

Pryor uses the trombone now mainly to demonstrate his technique to visiting high school musicians. He sees them gladly, and charges nothing. Pryor has an unusual method for achieving that wavy tone which has won the slide trombone praise as "The violin of the brasses." Olden used to waggle the whole instrument and modern performers like Tommy Dorsey agitate the slide.

"I wave it with my lower jaw," Pryor says. Pryor, who was probably the country's most popular musician before the jazz band craze, holds no bitterness against the swing-ers.

His son, Roger, led a jazz band and even got father's permission to swing "The Whistler" as a theme song.

The elder Pryor sees honest American jazz music as legitimate entertainment, although he contends that "the concert bands deserve credit for bringing the people closer to good music."

What he cannot forgive, however, is the swinging of the classics like "Martha," "The Evening Star," "My Love" and "Piano Concerto."

"Schickowski has suffered terribly," he says. These jazz versions of old masters, Pryor declares, have so confused the younger generation that youths put a swing rhythm into music when they think they are playing it straight.

Musical curios abound in the modest farmhouse at Driftwood, which the Pryors share with Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Haviland, the parents of Mrs. Arthur Pryor, Jr. Among the items is a little old talking-machine record entitled "The Two Grenadiers Trombone solo by Arthur Pryor, Aug. 31, 1897"—a memento of Pryor's years as a pioneer of instrumental recording. It plays, too, although the bell-like trombone notes battle every inch of the way with surface noises.

Haviland is the practical farmer on the place, and Pryor confines himself mainly to his musical scores. When farm life palls on him, he takes flight to nearby Asbury Park, where he usually can find a friendly game of poker.

One wall of Pryor's study holds 16 fishing rods and two nets (he prefers "sweet water" fishing) and he also enjoys riding horseback.

Week-ends, the young people descend on the place. Arthur Pryor, Jr., is a vice-president of a New York advertising firm. The younger son, Roger, doesn't get home so often. He went to Hollywood to appear in movies and now is master of ceremonies for a west coast radio program.

Vitamins in Workers' Diets Prove Profitable

The past winter has proved the dollars-and-cents value of vitamins in the diets of workers. A number of companies have been supplying the vitamins in capsule form to employees free.

A group of employees in that department of a stove manufacturing plant where different shades of white porcelain must be matched, were fed vitamin A, which is particularly helpful to vision. The result was that rejects were reduced from the usual 3 per cent average to 0.3 per cent—and the company saved $5,000 a year! As a result of this treatment, many workers who had worn glasses for years found they were able to discard them. One worker who formerly had headaches and burning eyes after a day's work found that these symptoms disappeared—and he gained weight!

A Minnesota machine tool company started last winter to feed its workers vitamin capsules, and expects the project to pay for itself. Each morning, every worker received a capsule in a paper cup with a health message printed on it. It is expected that the cost of capsules, cups and printing will not exceed $500 for the three-month period covered.

And manufacturers are not the only ones taking advantage of this miracle of modern science. The St. Louis Cardinals baseball team included vitamins in its training camp diet.

Cartel Means Control

Cartel, in the economic sense, denotes a combination of corporations or firms operating to control production, prices and marketing of a particular commodity. Cartels may include only national corporations or firms or may be international, including corporations or firms of different countries, or including cartels of different countries having the purpose of controlling the international market.

An international cartel will have the support of governments and usually must be based on legislation or an act of a government. When governments act in unison in an attempt to control a commodity, it usually is called an international agreement rather than a cartel, but the present tendency seems to be to extend the term cartel to include government agreements.

Wafer Cleanser

A new kind of cleanser which may be carried in the purse and is grand for traveling, has been introduced by a noted beautician. It comes in transparent wafers that look like pale pink or blue cellophane and is used in place of soap.

A single wafer washes the hands clean and leaves them soft and fragrant. It does not matter how hard the water is the disc dissolves quickly and turns into fine white lather. It is a boon to travelers and is easy to use on trains, planes or motor trips. To use, wet one hand and place wafer on it, then wet the other hand and rub palms together tightly until it produces a fine lather. It makes a novel gift, small enough to slip into an envelope.

Coffee Table

Defense Drive Boosts Mining

Output of Mercury, Chrome, Manganese and Tungsten Doubles in Two Years.

SAN FRANCISCO.—A new mining boom is on in the West. But the old boom camps of the roaring forties have vanished into the shadowy past along with the bearded prospector and his burro.

Stimulated by the defense program, the mines of California and Oregon are producing as never before even in the halcyon goldrush days. But their operation has fallen into a streamlined, modern design.

Demand for metals needed in the manufacture of guns and armaments, shells and explosives has more than doubled production of manganese, mercury, tungsten, chromite and antimony during the past two years, Charles White Merrill, chief engineer of the United States bureau of mines in San Francisco revealed.

Contrast With Past.

But in place of the wide open camps of the famous forties which grew up around the mines here 60 years ago, the plants are now manned by sober farm boys, clerks and mechanics from nearby country and small towns, who drive to work in the family "jalopy."

At the booming new "Bonanza" mercury mine near Roseburg, Ore., a survey shows that the men drive from 10 to 70 miles a day to their jobs. At several big plants in California and Nevada there isn't even a store or a bunk house.

The Bonanza mine now ranks with the New Idria and the New Almaden mines of central California as the three largest mercury mines in America.

Production of the fluid quicksilver has doubled here in the past two years. West coast mines now yield 3,000 flasks a month. Incidentally the price has jumped from $75 a flask in 1938 to $192 a flask today, department records show.

Source of Metals.

Manganese chromite and antimony in North America, are found almost exclusively in the coast and Sierra Nevada foothills of the western slope.

Increased production of these metals has been stimulated recently, Merrill pointed out, by construction of two large smelters in Tacoma, Wash., and Portland, Ore., to reduce the ore to ferro-alloys.

Due to the high shipping cost of the raw ore to eastern steel mills and importation of cheap Oriental minerals, the western source of supply has remained practically untapped, until the present emergency.

Operation of the new furnaces make reduction of the bulky ore to concentrates possible with corresponding economy of shipment to the East coast. Government reports show a 50 per cent boost in production here already with Merrill predicting even greater expansion during 1942.

Insane Patient Scores

Librarian for Lapse

NAPANOCHE, N. Y.—The librarian at the State Institution for Male Defective Delinquents made the mistake of reissuing the same book to an inmate after 20 years.

The inmate indignantly wrote a long letter reprimanding the librarian for his lapse of memory. He concluded:

"And once I have perused a book I do not want to read it again. What do you think I am, feeble-minded, that I cannot remember a book I have read?"

Turned Out to Be Close

Shave for Both of Them

KINGWOOD, W. VA.—W. W. Lyons wasn't a passenger in the army plane that crashed here the other day; in fact, wasn't even near the scene of the crash. But he was listed as a casualty. Lyons was shaving when he heard the plane droning overhead. Then suddenly the plane swooped with a roar over the Lyons residence and Lyons instinctively ducked, cutting himself. The pilot wasn't hurt. But he and Lyons had a close shave.

Even Slide Rules Are

Hit by Defense Program

COLUMBIA, MO.—One Missouri university engineering student is well aware of the shortages caused by national defense.

William D. McFadden, St. Louis, was presented with a slide rule for having the highest grade in the freshman engineering class last year.

But McFadden doesn't get to keep the rule. It was a fellow student's borrowed because priorities prevented getting a new one.

Children Safely Caught

In Jumping From a Fire

OMAHA.—Harold Rady, 29, has his own method of rescuing children from the roof of a burning house. Hearing cries near by, Rady rushed to a smoke-filled house to see Esther, 14; Edwin and Etta, both 7, of the Proplech family, on the roof of a front porch.

"Jump," Rady advised, and he caught each one of them safely. Not a method to be used by the faint-hearted or the weak-kneed!

Two Groups Formed

At a meeting of the Sisterhood of Congregation Ahavath Israel, Wurts and Pierpont streets, held Wednesday evening, Mrs. Irving J. Josephson, chairman of the Home Defense Committee of the Sisterhood, announced the formation of two groups which will act in the present national emergency. A Red Cross first aid course will be given in the community house of the synagogue Wednesday evenings, the date of the first lecture to be announced shortly. A Red Cross sewing and knitting unit will meet in the community house Tuesday afternoons. A large attendance is expected at both activities. All women interested in the work of these groups are invited to attend the meetings.

RED CROSS WAR FUND

The American Red Cross has opened its war fund campaign for $50,000,000 and is asking the people of this county to raise $45,000 of this huge amount. Dutchess county has been assigned $80,000.

The quota for the Red Cross War Fund Committee of Ulster County is not excessive. But in order to go over the top it will require hard work and the cooperation of everyone. It is a task that must be done. There are a great many who cannot give a substantial amount and to make up for these it behooves all those in a position to do so to respond most liberally.

All know that the Red Cross needs this large sum of money to carry out effectively its functions as an essential auxiliary of our armed forces and the response will be inspiring in its promptness and generosity.

There have been numerous campaigns for funds in this city and vicinity and any new appeal would appear to be unnecessary at this time. However, when the great cause of the American Red Cross comes to mind all opposition vanishes. The money for the Red Cross is for the relief of suffering. The Red Cross is an organization in which everybody should have a part.

Let there be no slackers in the subscription solicitation now underway in Ulster county.

Kingston stores are remaining open evenings until 9:30 o'clock to afford an opportunity to persons employed during the day to do their Christmas shopping. Christmas is just around the corner and if you haven't done your Christmas shopping, you had better get at it right away. There is an ample supply of gift articles for all in Kingston stores.

PROSPERITY, BUT AND IF—

A "spotty prosperity", different from any that this nation is familiar with, is the forecast for next year of Gen. Leonard P. Ayres, business analyst and banker.

"In 1942," he says, "we are going to have a new and different prosperity because most of the things that Americans usually buy in prosperous times will not be available to them." Merchants will not have to worry about getting customers into their stores, but about keeping on their shelves the things that customers ask for.

There is something that merchants can do to help themselves in this situation. They need not just sit down and complain that the war has put them out of business. Colonel Ayres advises them—

"Every merchant who sells goods containing scarce materials ought to have the most resourceful and ingenious buyers he can find, hard at work now on the task of finding new lines and substitute goods, and suppliers who can discover how to manufacture present articles without using scarce materials."

This should not be too difficult for a people long given to evolving new methods, inventing new devices and developing new fabrics and materials.

SMASHING JAP GOODS

There is now a general boycott on Japanese goods in this country. It is natural and legitimate. It expresses public resentment for the murderous attack on our people. And it is a practical penalty which in the long run may be almost as effective as military action against the offender.

Some phases of this boycott, however, don't seem very sensible. There are reports of parties, organized by grown-ups, in which children smash Japanese-made goods on the sidewalks. The kids doubtless have a good time, and business men contributing such material from their stores are patriotic about it. But wouldn't it be more sensible to preserve such things for practical use, or as pathetic mementos of the Japan that used to be?

DON'T "HOG" THINGS

It's harder now to get goods of many kinds. Automobile tires are almost off the market, except where they're imperatively needed for important public services. We're warned to economize on paper. As we go along, we shall probably find shortages developing in food, clothing, shoes, lumber, paint, hardware, and scores of other things that we usually take as a matter of course.

What to do in this situation? Rush right out to buy everything we can think of, as long as our money and credit hold out?

Certainly not! We should be sporting and patriotic, keeping calm and taking our chances with our friends and neighbors.

GROCERS ON THE JOB

Jason B. Grossman, president of a wholesale grocers' association, has set in motion a program for orderly handling of the nation's foodstuffs.

"The industry should take the initiative," he says, "in heading off panic among housewives. The first thing is to give the public the facts about supplies of foodstuffs on hand. For instance, we have a tremendous supply of wheat, and there is no need for anybody to worry."

"We should have a public relations division to keep the public and the retail grocers informed. Clerks should be given information to pass on to customers. Information should be made available to the newspapers."

"The second point of my plan is the formation, by wholesale grocers who would be representatives of their associations, of a state board that would work with the federal government to control prices and eliminate speculative profits."

This strikes an observer as practical patriotism. It should have wholehearted public support where it has been started. States that have not already launched similar programs might well copy this one.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

THROAT SYMPTOMS

When an individual has a 'sore throat', he may get a mirror and a good light and try to see if throat is inflamed. If throat is not inflamed he is at a loss to know why his throat is giving him so much trouble.

In speaking of patients with throat symptoms and yet throat appears normal, Dr. Harry Ford, Oklahoma City, in Journal of the Oklahoma State Medical Association, states that defects and diseases of other organs of the body may cause the throat symptoms. Some of these are chronic inflammation of the kidneys, diabetes, hardening of the liver, a failing heart, disorders of the stomach and intestine due to unwise eating and too little exercise, and disturbances of the thyroid gland. Excessive use of the voice may affect the whole throat. Another unsuspected cause of sore throat and inflammation of the throat is the outer ear. Washing out of the ear with a solution of the throat that is sore has given relief in cases where the antrum itself was giving no trouble.

What about the cases where the patient complains of a sore throat yet no cause can be found in the throat itself or in any part of the body or the working processes of the body?

When symptoms occur in any organ of the body with no apparent cause, then the condition is called a neurosis. A patient may have a heart neurosis, a stomach or intestine neurosis, or a neurosis of the mind. This neurosis may actually affect the organ and cause disturbances without visible changes in the organ.

That there are many individuals who keep their mind on their throat just as others do on their heart is only too true and Dr. Ford suggests that the physician must do one of two things. In some cases the neurotic patient may be treated often and given instructions for home treatment. In other cases the patient "with a mirror at home who is always trying to find something wrong" should have his attention directed from himself and his throat in any way possible.

Most of these patients with a sore throat neurosis are helped by improving the general health, including the nervous system rather than by any direct treatment of the throat itself.

Neurosis

Are you convinced that you have some ailment although medical tests do not reveal it? Feel that there must be something wrong that physicians do not discover? Send today for Dr. Barton's interesting booklet entitled "Neurosis" (No. 103). To obtain it just send ten cents, to cover cost of handling and mailing, to The Bell Library, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y., mentioning the Kingston Daily Freeman.

DEFENSE BOND Quiz

Q. How does the Government feel about people who redeem their Defense Savings Bonds?

A. If the circumstances make it necessary for people to draw on the savings represented by the money they have loaned to the Government for National Defense, that is their privilege in the purely voluntary Defense Savings effort, but of course you can't spend your Bond and have it too.

Q. May the owner of a Defense Savings Bond sell it or give it away?

A. No. Defense Savings Bonds are not transferable. Owners are permitted to redeem them prior to maturity in case they want or need to do so.

Note.—To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office, bank, or savings and loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C. Also Samps are now on sale at retail stores.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

PARENTS AND ECONOMICS

Babson Discusses Morals and Business

Camp Devens, Mass., Dec. 19—1

have recently visited one of the largest Army Camps for training U. S. Draftees. Having heard of sidewalk strikes, manufactured illnesses, and even suicides there, I decided to see for myself what's going on. I returned with a definite conclusion: The fault is not with the young men in the camps, but rather with those on the outside, that is, those who have not been drafted.

Beware of Only War Booms

Sleeping Sunday mornings will not win the war with Japan. Our World War efforts will be of little avail until we all think less about having a good time and more about doing a good job. From the southwest there comes an editorial which has the right idea. A

A Texas newspaper editor in San Augustine writes that there is not much wrong with the country as there is wrong with the people in it. Too many have gone "good-time" crazy and are working just to get money for playing. Too few are playing with the purpose of building up energy for work.

These crazies and manias go in cycles just like everything else. Since World War I this "good-time" bug has spread like an epidemic. "No longer the moon alone can hold in spell the Romans and Juliets of 1941. It must be a dinner, a show, after some dancing, and then some sixty-cent chicken sandwiches, to say nothing of gasoline, oil, tires, fines for speeding, and wrecks—of car or of character, or both. How the average man in average circumstances, "good-time" crazy himself, and with a "good-time" crazy wife and children, makes both ends meet is a mystery to all of us. The answer is that he is not making both ends meet, not even one end.

"It would be a dull life if we would not occasionally reach for a sweet. But the good books, the sunsets, the forests, the birds and the flowers that Emerson, Lowell, Longfellow, and the hosts of other great men have sung about seem to have lost some of their appeal. The family circle is the steering wheel. Family prayers or simple invocations at the dinner table are something we tell our children about that happened in the long ago."

We adults talk and act as if we are going to live forever. We forget that in a few years we must turn our government, banks, and business over to these youngsters whom we are now neglecting.

Subsidies and Doles

Subsidies and doles never won a war. A dole is nothing more than dole, like oil of cloves for aching teeth. The worst dole cases, however, are not among the poor, but among some of the self-styled upper classes. I refer to the recklessness and wastefulness of young people who live on doles supplied by foolish parents. This spectacle gives more encouragement to communism than to patriotism. It also greatly handicaps law enforcement when criminals see the lawlessness of children of ostensibly better families.

This profligacy, according to one analysis, is creating "more economic waste than all the supposed inefficiency of government and all the alleged corruption of politics." The present generation of young people may be just as sound fundamentally as my own generation; but if so, surely they have worse parents! Today's parents have invented and are giving to their children most dangerous doles in the form of automobiles, radios, taxis, speedboats, movies, roadhouses, dinner dances, and clothes that would have made Croesus and Midas feel like village school teachers working on part time. This would not be so bad if we increased character training to counterbalance these temptations; but most fathers are too busy making money to spend their time training children.

Wasteful Spending

"I don't blame John and Mary so much as I do their 'Santa Claus.' Perhaps the only reason why, as a young man, I didn't drive my father's horse sixty miles an hour was because he couldn't go that fast even when I stepped on him! But if I had attempted such feats, I surely would have been made to throw my work into high gear likewise so as to earn the money to pay the piper. No doles were passed out to us kids in those days. If we were to have a good time, we knew we had to have a good job; and we paid our bills instead of sending them home. My father believed that his most important work was to train his children; then other things followed.

The greatest difficulty confronting young people today is that they have the spending power of giants and the earning power of babies. Their costly whoopees, as mendicants existing on the charity of their families at a time of world-wide calamity, seem outrageous to those who know that World War II can be won only by intelligent budgets and worthwhile work. Anyone who is mature enough to be out all night is mature enough to work all day. We have had wars before; but when the history of World War II is written, economists will record our unexampled wastefulness of money, time, and health among the boys and girls who have not yet been drafted for war service.

Dangerous Economic Examples

The chief crime of families who are now indulging their children's mania for having a good time is not that the world is deprived of their children's services; the services of young folks of the jive type are not likely to be especially valuable. The damage they do is in the bad example they set and in the unrest they develop within the great army camps of the United States and Canada. Furthermore, dissipation does not "make jobs for men." Employment in the long run—cannot be helped by patronizing dance halls or breweries. The need today is not for more fool jobs, but for better men to handle real jobs. The solution of our employment problem awaits the raising—not the lowering—of our character.

As the Texas economist observes: "If the economic leaks could be stopped, economic conditions would brighten up. Every man who had an income at all could afford more juicy steaks and more pairs of shoes. He could afford to contribute more to the worthy causes that seek to advance the welfare of his community. He would not need worry about the cost-of-living or taxes. More people would be employed if less commodities and money were wasted. A luxury-consuming nation, to the detriment of commodity or necessity consumption, can't last forever." When young and old alike give their thoughts and energies, not to having a good time but, to doing a good job; then, and only then, will we bring the Japanese to their senses and help win World War II.

Buy Defense Stamps

Self-interest as well as patriotism urges everybody to buy defense savings stamps and bonds. Our country needs the money now. Save and invest for victory and liberty. Buy now.

consuming nation, to the detriment of commodity or necessity consumption, can't last forever." When young and old alike give their thoughts and energies, not to having a good time but, to doing a good job; then, and only then, will we bring the Japanese to their senses and help win World War II.

End of Enlistments and Shakeup in Hawaiian Command Step Up War Outlook

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 19—Two major developments of the last few days have put a phenomenal stimulus into the whole war outlook.

One is the decision to suspend voluntary enlistments and let the selective service machinery function as originally intended, thus putting a stop to the indiscriminate departure from factories of skilled mechanics and needed workers who feel the patriotic urge to fight.

The other is the shakeup in the high command at Hawaii. There is no concealing the fact that throughout the navy it has been a matter of common gossip for months that President Roosevelt has picked high naval officers on the basis of his own personal appraisal of their worth rather than on what others in the service considered were the proper bases for promotion.

This, of course, is something that always is heard about service promotions but, because of Mr. Roosevelt's own familiarity with the navy, it has been talked about much more under his administration. All sorts of stories are told to the effect that officers who are "yes men" and will not stand up to the administration have been rewarded while forthright and outspoken officers have been sidetracked.

Some of these differences of opinion, to be sure, are said to have been fundamental. Thus, it is related that Admiral Richardson was withdrawn from the fleet and Admiral Kimmel placed in charge in the Pacific because the former insisted that the fleet should not be divided in two oceans till it was ready for such a step. The theory of the late Admiral Mahan, U. S. N., foremost naval strategist of modern times, and so acknowledged throughout the world, was that a fleet should always be kept intact as a unit.

Whatever were the circumstances that caused the President to select Admiral Kimmel over and above other officers who were in line for promotion, the fact remains that in selecting Admiral Nimitz to take charge in the Pacific, Mr. Roosevelt has put the quietus on the talk of favoritism and has picked an officer in whom the navy has unbounded confidence. Certainly the President has given proof that now that war is on he is not allowing any factor to influence him on naval and military operations except merit and efficiency.

The appointment of the board of inquiry on the Hawaiian debacle is by no means going to lead to a whitewash. For the personnel is high grade in every respect. Not only is Justice Roberts as fine a character as Washington has ever seen in public life in many years but the army and navy officers selected for the board are able and non-political in every sense. They will bring in a report on the facts no matter who is hurt or helped by the findings.

The navy's own morale has been improved by the quick changes made in the set-up at Hawaii. As for the air corps, it feels that at last recognition is given in the new lineup to the major importance of air warfare.

The controversy over whether the United States should have a separate air force coordinate in rank with the army and navy may be settled in quite a different way than has been generally expected. The placing of high air corps officers to command the army in its overseas operations is beginning to be discussed as the probable solution. Inasmuch as the air services must cooperate with both army and navy, the presence of high air corps officers in strategic points as in Hawaii may tend more toward the German system where the air corps takes charge when air operations are vital and the military comes into command where operations are primarily those of mechanized land armies.

The first panicky feeling that followed the news of the defeat at Hawaii is disappearing. The war and navy departments are settling down to the grim business of a long haul. The discouraging of voluntary enlistments is essential to the orderly selection of soldiers and sailors. It is more important just now to keep civilian production going than to allow skilled mechanics and other essential workers to enlist. But until Secretary Stimson announces the proposed suspension of voluntary enlistments there was really no way to keep plant organizations and factory personnel from being disrupted not only among the workers but in the managerial staffs. Selective service was championed from the start as a means of selecting soldiers but the presence of the draft has always appeared inconsistent. The inconsistency is now removed.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

Washington — The Greeks had a word for what has happened to Washington in 1941. They called it metamorphosis.

A year ago, Kurt Sell, Masuo Kato and I could walk into the White House and the President's press conference with no more than a grin of recognition from the men who manned the door.

Now Sell (D.N.B., official German news agency) is in "protective custody" in a Baltimore hotel room; Kato (Domei, official Japanese news agency), likewise, after spending his day in jail for being a little recalcitrant, I have to say "friend" and prove it before I can get past a couple of bayonets into that outer White House sanctum where your only passport is a nod from the knowing secret service.

A year ago, the army, navy, White House, treasury, and bureau of engraving and printing, civil service, and a half dozen other places were on every tourist guide's list. Today, the visiting taxpayers can't get near them without a handful of credentials.

Twelve months since, you could get a hotel room in Washington on 24 hours' notice and a plane or train in or out in less than two hours, no matter what your red tape. Most of it will be measured in getting transportation and a bed. And you'll run against things like this: a friend whose bank account runs to five figures, was tossed out of one major hotel because he was seven hours overdue on his WEEKLY rental; another who has no bank account at all was dismissed because he couldn't explain that $50 had been stolen from locked luggage in his room.

A year ago, landlords of tenements, apartments and houses, were rubbing their hands in glee; now they are blistering their thumbs turning pages of the nation's first fixed rent law.

In January, 1941, the beach at Waikiki was one of the few playgrounds left in the world away from the western continents. Last night, Radford E. Mobley, Jr., and I were comparing Christmas cards. His, mailed Dec. 5, was from Gov. Joseph B. Pendergast of Hawaii. It said "Christmas Greetings." The picture was of the great white Iolani palace, with its broad expanse of sloping lawns, now ripped by bombs.

Mine was from a minor naval officer, whose name must be withheld. It was dated Dec. 6. In browns and reds and greens, it showed a native girl in grass skirt and lei, sipping pau from a wooden bowl. My friend had scribbled inside: "Wish you were here." He was a member of the staff of the Arizona.

I think it has only been ten months since I wrote this line: "If you judged simply by the number of uniforms you see, you'd never know that the United States is all out for national defense." Yesterday, I counted 27 uniformed men in one block on Pennsylvania avenue, nearly a mile from any war department building.

Even after President Roosevelt's third term was well under way, all I had to do to get the other side of an argument was to call the opposition. Now, the only opposition is to the Axis powers. The other day, I had lunch with a millionaire Republican oil man; a high official of the Chinese government; one of the top Democratic leaders in the Senate; a Democratic congressman from Texas; a dollar-a-year man from big business; and two cabinet members. Out of the whole batch, you couldn't even get a difference of opinion on the weather.

A year ago, Washington learned of war from foreign correspondents on a holiday; from Harry Hopkins, Averell Harriman, Colonel "Bill" Donovan, and the score of others who had been across and suffered through the "blitzes" on London, Chungking, Athens, Crete and Cairo.

Tonight, air raid wardens are attending grim schools in Alexandria, Chevy Chase, Anacostia and Washington proper.

West Hurley School Play To Be Given Next Week

The school children of West Hurley will present their Christmas entertainment at the Methodist Church hall Monday evening, December 22, at 8 o'clock.

The exercises consist of recitations, singing of Christmas carols, selections played by the school orchestra, rhythm band and a specialty number entitled "Aboard the Good Ship Polar Star."

This play is a story of a merry crew sailing in search of Santa Claus land. During the height of the festivities on board the Polar Star, a band of pirates interrupt the merriment and search the ship for valuables. They are finally captured by a brave and daring sailor and repent their wrong doings. Santa arrives in time to create the true Christmas spirit of happiness.

The play was written, coached and costumed by Mrs. Lawrence Joyce.

Leon Lenard will direct the school orchestra.

The public is given a cordial invitation by Ernest Myer, school principal, to be present.

serious loss to the city during the bank holiday in 1933.

Mr. Betts was appointed manager of the Albany district of the Home Owners' Loan Corp. on October 13, 1933. When he assumed this office there was but a skeleton office force of 10 employees, and during the peak of the office's operations he directed the work of 125 employees. During his first year with the H. O. L. C. the district included 32 counties in the state, with branch offices in Syracuse, Utica, Binghamton, Schenectady and Troy.

In the Albany district, Mr. Betts refinanced 5,400 distressed mortgages, with a total dollar value of $21,000,000. His duties required that he personally approve the appraisals on each of the 5,400 loans made. The lending powers of the H. O. L. C. expired by statute in 1936, and shortly thereafter the Albany office was closed.

Mr. Betts is vice president of the Kingston Business Men's Association, president of the Wiltwyck Hose Co., secretary of the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association and a member of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association. He is a trustee of the First Baptist Church of Kingston, a trustee of the Kingston City Library, and a member of Kingston Lodge No. 10, F. & A. M., and of Kingston Post No. 130, American Legion.

Berlin Puts Japs First

New York, Dec. 19 (AP)—Radio monitors noted today that Berlin apparently now considers Japanese news better than German reports. NBC listeners said that for the first time the Japanese high command communiqué was read before the German communiqué on the Berlin radio. European news was given only 3 minutes out of the 15 minute broadcast.

studied that and remembered that, we would not have been surprised."

Served Useful Purpose

But the attack did serve a useful purpose, he continued, because it drove home "with frightful force upon the minds of our military leaders the importance of guarding against surprise, the importance of never underestimating the boldness and resourcefulness of the enemy; and upon the civilian population, it drove home with a sense of horror the treachery of the foe we have to defeat."

"This gave us what we must have and now do have—a completely united country for the prosecution of a war to a successful conclusion. So out of this affair of treachery, ultimate good comes."

Knox conceded that the Axis had an army which until recently swept all Europe before it, a large and well trained air force and "a very considerable fleet—at present, by far the largest naval force in the western Pacific, where most of the sea fighting will be done."

Nevertheless victory would come to the United States and its allies "eventually and inevitably," he declared.

"It will be ours because, strong though our enemies are, we are stronger still. The United States is the greatest single economic force in the world today. With our allies we can out-produce the Axis powers in all the material of war—in planes and in ships; in tanks and in guns."

In addition to Britain, China and Russia with their vast resources and manpower, Knox said, the smaller nations which had joined the Allied front had each "a valuable contribution to make to the common cause," and the underground activity of the populations of occupied areas "has already created a new front in the heart of conquered Europe."

The secretary told the midshipmen it would not be easy to live up to the heroism and devotion to duty shown by their navy mates at Pearl Harbor but that it was up to them to do so.

"There are names which are fragrant in our memories whenever we think of American courage and American fighting spirit," he said, "Valley Forge and Belleau Wood, Bunker Hill and Mobile Bay, Gettysburg and Chateau Thierry."

"Today we have a new pearl to add to the rosary of memory: Pearl Harbor."

There are so many instances where folks are apt to put off things they ought to do at once. If it is a letter they should answer, a delay may make it impossible, for they might find that the person has passed away. So it is, with many ideas that could be used for improvement. We think: "Oh, I'm too busy today. Let it go until tomorrow." But when tomorrow arrives, more work has piled up; we find no time then. Finally, the good idea escapes us entirely, and is forgotten.

The best time to do a thing is when you have the first fresh enthusiasm to put it through with a punch. Delay only weakens your resolve. Whatever it is, the slogan "DO IT NOW" is a good one, to keep in mind. If there is a quarrel that you should try to end, don't delay. Do it today! Maybe the other party is only wishing for a chance to "bury the hatchet" too.

If you are inclined to resent someone's manner, because you think they go about with a "chip on their shoulder," don't think it's possible that they may be having some unknown troubles, which are hard to bear. This may be the cause of their queer manner toward you. To present a cheerful face at all times, is often difficult. Give a smile, then, to the harsh criticism is enough to discourage anyone. No one is self-sufficient, for each one depends on someone else for something. Let's spread harmony not discord.

In your contacts with others, be constructive. Encourage them whenever possible. Even the best of us have faults, perhaps, which grate upon other's nerves, though we may be unaware of it. A friendly smile can do much to break the ice, when you find a person's attitude is antagonistic. Do not let barriers grow up, if you can remove them by unbending enough to meet the person half way. Even to reconcile friends, co-operation is necessary. If a good-natured puppy offers you his paw, you would not strike him, probably, you would smile and pat him.

A little more patience would make it easier for us to practice tolerance with our neighbor's shortcomings. One man may be overbearing and we need patience to avoid friction. On the other hand, Ted may be capable, yet timid, and he needs encouragement, to express himself. Sometimes a person needs only new responsibilities to forget his differences, and he emerges from his humble shell, to plunge confidently into new duties. And lo, he finds success!

Experts would brifen woman's skirt
A textile shortage to avert;
This sacrifice is for defense,
What about man's pants?

Women's skirts are short enough. But think of yards and yards of stuff! It would save for national defense To cut off men's pants!

If calves and ankles have to freeze. Let men wear shorts above the knees! If skirts grow scanty for defense, What about men's pants?

Abraham Lincoln once said: "When I'm getting ready to reason with a man, I spend one-third of my time thinking about myself and what I'm going to say—and two-thirds thinking about him and what he is going to say."

Native—Nobody. It ain't quite dead yet.

HOURS: To every person is given 24 hours a day, no more and no less. What we make of the hours determines our fate. Especially is this true of our working time. It is not the number of hours a man puts in, but what a man puts in the hours that counts.

Chapter 27
At Six Per Cent

"I WAS partners with Sim Smith in this schooner," Washy said. "That's where my money was tied up. I knew I'd get the money back all right, some day, but the bank, it had to get paid cash money then, see?"

Asey nodded. "Well," Washy continued, "I was feelin' pretty blue about it all when Miss Olive came to me one day, out in the kitchen, an' said she knew how things was, an' she'd like to lend me the cash money to pay the bank. Only she didn't want Mrs. Doane to know. So—"

"Why not?" "Miss Olive said Mrs. Doane'd make a lot of fuss over her, an' things wouldn't be the same, an' nothin' but hard feelin's ever come when one woman lent another woman money—I think she was right, don't you, Asey? An' when them cussed cops started pokin' around tonight, I thought to myself, I wasn't goin' to have this spoiled now if I could help it. It'd look awful funny if they asked my wife to explain about the notes an' she didn't know, see, an' nobody'd believe me if Miss Olive wasn't there."

"Washy, where in time'd Miss Olive get this cash money to pay you with? They told me she was a schoolteacher."

"Oh, she's one of them careful ones, I guess," Washy said. "I think of it, my wife not knowin' about this. When I get the last cent paid up, I'm goin' to tell her an' show her the notes, an' that's goin' to be a great day, Asey. I can tell you! Asey, you don't think anything's happened to Miss Olive tonight, do you?"

"I don't know," Asey opened the tin box, struck a match, and held up one of the papers. It was a note, a plain, Washy was apparently telling the truth.

"I hope you noticed," Washy said proudly, "that I pay her six per cent interest, too. I pay that regular, out of my own pay, an' what I pick up shootin' crap with fellers like Rankin around the Inn."

"Where's that gun of yours?" Asey said. "Got it in your pocket now?" "Oh, I give that to one of them cops," Washy said. "I told him I had a gun, an' a license, an' give 'em to him, right away. But you know what I was thinkin' to do?"

"What?" "I was thinkin', if anyone's harmed Miss Olive," Washy said, "I don't know but what I might cut loose enough to make up for all them quiet years. I'd like to locate her, Asey, an' be sure she was all right. Can't you figure out some way we can find her?"

"I done my best," Asey assured him. "Tell me one more thing, Washy. This feller Alfred, Lady Boop's chauffeur. You seen him go into the Inn this evenin'—"

More On Alfred
"I TOLD them cops I took a pot shot at him," Washy said with a snicker. "I couldn't help myself. I always wanted to, an' there he stood outlin' against that wall, big as a barge! I knew I hadn't ought to do it, but I couldn't help myself. I just had to, Asey."

"Wasn't carryin' anythin'," was he?" Asey asked. "Like a large bundle, maybe?" Washy laughed.

"Say, you couldn't tell, with him! Once I seen him walk in that kind of waddle of his from the garage to the car, an' it wasn't till ten minutes later that I realized he'd been luggin' a tire all the time! He ain't such a bad shot. Used to be a cop, you know."

"Alfred? He was a cop?" "Yup," Washy said. "Till he got kicked off of the force for bribery an' corruption—course, he never told that part. He just said he didn't see no future in bein' a cop, so he quit. Say, Asey, anyone think to look in her room?"

"Whose?" "Miss Olive's. I don't know's I ever knew it to happen," Washy said, "but I been thinkin' maybe she might of come in an' gone to bed with a headache or somethin'. Seems like somebody ought to of seen her come in, if she did, or her car'd be here, but she's a quiet sort of person. Don't make any noise. She might have come in without any of us hearin' her. 'Course, I know whoever called up said not to expect her, but just the same, she might be back anyway. You can't never tell."

"What do you make of that call?" Asey asked. "Oh, I think Freddy got it wrong. You know," Washy lowered his voice, "she's got this feller, Freddy, an' my wife don't like him, an' Freddy's kind of worked up about things. She don't pay attention. Tonight in there, when she was talkin' with that head cop, I noticed she made any number of mistakes. I didn't say nothin' because I knew if I pointed 'em out her mother'd jump on her—my wife's a great jumper, you noticed that?"

"Uh-huh. Mistakes like what, Washy?"

"Like about this afternoon. She kept tellin' that cop that there was somebody in the livin' room all the time, every single minute, an' I know for a fact there wasn't! She an' Rankin an' Lady Boop was out in my kitchen at least twice, all three of 'em together yellin' for food. Couldn't have been anybody in the livin' room then, now, could there?"

"Huh!" Asey said the remains of his theory about the phone booth's rear door disappearing forever.

"An' she kept sayin' we was all in the livin' room durin' that special broadcast, too!"

"Wasn't you?" Asey said.

"Why, we all come together to hear it, but we didn't stay put, like Freddy made that cop think. The laundry man come just as the King started to speak, an' I had to get up an' give him the laundry, an' my wife went off while the Queen was speakin', to get Lady Boop a handkerchief—look at her cryin' her eyes out for the British! Washy said, "but she wouldn't give 'em ten cents if her life depended on it! An' Rankin went out durin' that music in the middle of it to get his raincoat he'd left down here—begun to look awful stormy about then. An' then Mamie Riggs got up an' left after the President's spoke a minute or two. So what I think about that call Freddy took tonight, Asey, is just that she made another mistake again. Between you an' me, I think he's around here somewhere."

"Who? The feller that shot Ann Joyce?"

"I don't know nothin' about him. I mean Freddy's feller, Course, no one's asked me, Washy said, "but what I think is, that someone just asked Freddy for Miss Olive, an' said she could expect him to call back, an' Freddy got it wrong."

New Problems
Asey got up from the bath-house steps.

"Huh!" he said. "Anyway, that may explain why people been peerin' around, an' where Freddy was, an' why she was so gay when she come in! I think you gone a long way toward clearin' up some things, Washy, but you sure landed me a flock of other problems!"

Washy said in a hurt voice he was sure he didn't see how he'd done any such thing.

"I only told you what you asked!" he added.

"Uh-huh. An' added a money problem that's got considerable ramifications," Asey said, "an' give everyone a gun an' Alfred a criminal career, as you might say, an' balled up this timin' business to a fare-thee-well. But, anyway, I think you got somethin' in bringin' up her room. Course, Hanson's boys must of looked it over by now, but I think I'll take a look at Miss Olive's room myself. I wonder, could I get to it without bein' seen, Washy? People been gettin' in my hair. Where is her room?"

"I'll show you," Washy said. Washy chafed about Cape and clam chowder and his own particular version of it as he and Asey walked back to the Inn.

"Gorry," he said, as they neared the brush pile, "see them car lights! Looks like there was even more of 'em millin' around! But what I say, Asey, is you can't bein' to tell no New Yorker about clam chowder because they don't even know what a clam is."

"Washy," Asey said, "who do you think shot that girl?"

"Gorry, Asey, I don't know! Don't seem to me it could of been anybody hereabouts! She got along fine with folks when she stayed here last summer—my wife always likes to have an actress or two around, or somebody mixed up with the theater, you know. Kind of acts up the rest of her plat. Always had a pleasant word when you seen her. 'Nice dinner,' she'd say. Or 'Nice lunch.' Or something like that. 'Course, I did wonder about the Hing-hams. But then that seemed kind of silly."

Consumers Should Know—

(6) Who Is the Big Boss of Business?

(Copyright 1941, Advertising Federation of America)

This is the last in a series of six articles prepared by the Bureau of Research and Education of the Advertising Federation of America, in response to the increasing interest of consumers in questions affecting advertising and business.

Everybody has a boss. In fact, the higher your position the more bosses you have. In business the biggest bosses of all are the customers. With every purchase they cast a vote, and from their decision there is no appeal.

When customers no longer favor a business its doors must close. There is a continuous parade of companies going out of business because the customers have decided against their products or their methods. During the past thirty years, an average of more than 1,000 companies every month have had to go out of business. New enterprises take their places and the competitive battle goes on.

A thousand a month is a tremendous rate of commercial failures. This figure may not be anything to brag about, but it does demonstrate the power of consumer verdicts. The business that has gone wrong certainly knows who is boss.

The successful business continues only so long as it is able to hold the approval of its customers.

When public taste changes, those who make and sell goods have to step lively to keep in tune with the times. If they don't, they are left by the wayside. It is impossible to buck the tide of public preference.

There is an interesting story about stiff collars and ex-soldiers. When our doughboys came home from the World War, they didn't like starched collars any more, although every civilian gentleman was supposed to wear them. So they bought soft shirts with collars attached. Their friends who had never worn army shirts took up the idea too and pretty soon there was a terrible drop in the sales of stiff collars. Alarmed collar makers started a big campaign. They tried to stem the tide to persuade men that you can't be well dressed without a stiff collar. But it didn't work. The appeal fell on deaf ears and collar sales continued to drop.

One large collar manufacturer saw the light. He realized that there was no use trying to fight the customers' verdict. Being a wise merchandiser, he decided to heed the dictates of his consumer bosses. He designed a soft collar, one that does not need to be starched. That was a revolutionary idea, but it took hold immediately.

With great advertising campaigns, this company persuaded the men that with the new soft collar they could be comfortable and look smart at the same time. As everybody knows, the whole thing was a tremendous success. It was a triumph for the consumer and for the wise manufacturer who worked with the tide of public taste rather than against it.

Recently someone made the mistake of trying to persuade women not to buy silk stockings. There was quite a nation-wide agitation about it and although no one came out flatfootedly against it, the drive was a complete failure. Women know that they look better in silk hose than in cotton stockings and you can't get them to change unless you have a substitute that is better.

But with dresses there is a different story. Some years ago a smart merchandiser in a metropolitan department store saw an opportunity. Everybody was wearing dresses of silk, linen, and other expensive materials for daily wear at office, school, and afternoon visiting. Why not a smart, good-looking cotton dress? This department store had some made and advertised them attractively.

The idea was an instant success and in no time shops up and down New York's Fifth Avenue had their window models decked out in colorful cotton frocks. A summer wave of cotton swept the country and both men and women were pleased with the result. It took advertising to put it over, but the campaign was successful only because it met with genuine approval of consumers.

In the short-skirt era of the early Twenties, these same women had refused to heed the plea of textile manufacturers who wanted longer dresses. The women knew what they wanted and refused to wear longer skirts at that time. Some years later, the trend changed, but only as a natural swing in feminine tastes.

Sometimes we hear about tyranny of fashion dictators. But this is mostly a mistaken notion. Whenever the rank and file of American women don't want a new fashion note, they don't take it. There are more fops than successes among fashion adventurers, and no one knows this better than apparel makers.

Hair dressers were responsible for making bobbed hair popular, but it was only because women really liked it that they were able to introduce the mode. Since then they have inaugurated one style of hair-do after another. Some proved popular and some fell flat. One of the failures was the style called "upswep," which was given a lot of promotion and was supported by movie stars and other style setters. But the women didn't want it, and this particular style didn't get past first base.

Some of the men, too, have a mind of their own. Certain manufacturers have been very much distressed about rebellious males who discarded hats and garters and refuse to listen to reason. So that hat manufacturers are concentrating on building lighter, cooler hats for Summer, and the garter rebels are being appeased by a new kind of socks with elastic tops to hold them up without garters.

The big swings in public preference are often initiated by the advertising of new products. There is a dramatic story about ice boxes and refrigerators that everybody ought to know because it is such a splendid illustration of the benefits of technical progress combined with good merchandising.

When mechanical refrigerators were first invented and put on the market, they were advertised intensively and the public adopted them quickly. With rapidly increasing sales, the costs of production were reduced and selling prices went way down. With reduced prices, more people could afford to buy refrigerators and soon it began to look as though old-fashioned ice boxes would be a thing of the past.

Ice-dealers were beginning to feel like the village blacksmiths did when the automobile came to town. They struggled desperately to hold their trade, but it was no use. Their sales efforts went unheeded.

But that is not the end of the story. Like the collar manufacturer who saw his market vanish, the ice men decided to go along with the tide of public preference and not try to fight against it. Consumers did not like the old ice boxes and why should they be persuaded to keep them? The only answer was a new kind of ice box, one that would compare favorably with the mechanical refrigerators.

The ice manufacturers were equal to the occasion. After a lot of hard work, engineering skill produced a truly fine ice box, matching many of the advantages of mechanical refrigerators. The improved ice refrigerators consume far less ice than the old ones, they are neat and handsome, and they have many technical modern improvements.

The ice industry advertised its achievement far and wide, and many householders bought the new refrigerators. The amazing result is that the ice business not only got back to where it had been before, but increased way beyond that. Latest statistics indicate that more ice boxes are being manufactured today than before the mechanical refrigerators were introduced. The number of ice dealers more than doubled in ten years and more men were employed making ice.

At the same time, the electrical and gas refrigerators are doing better than ever, with still lower prices, better boxes, and bigger sales. The answer is that now more homes than ever before have either mechanical refrigerators or ice boxes and consequently enjoy the benefits of food refrigeration. A new industry was born and an old industry took on new life. The public was the gainer.

We can all think of other examples which demonstrate consumer power. Who remembers what happened to Tom Thumb golf courses? Once upon a time they swept the country. Every town and hamlet had them. Millions were invested in these miniature golf courses, and the original promoters did very well.

But the whole idea passed away like a snowbank in July. The public decided against Tom Thumb. After that, no amount of promotion could make these microscopic golf courses pay, and they were torn up.

Book publishers and theatrical producers are supposed to be experts on public likes and dislikes. But they make mistakes every day. And no one knows better than they, that no producer can put over a book or a play that the public doesn't want. Until the customers have spoken, the producer never knows whether he has a best-seller or a flop.

Bicycles have lately come back to popular favor, with the help of good advertising and promotion. But why did they lose out in the first place? The boys and girls simply didn't care about bicycles for a while and nobody could do anything about it until they were ready to listen to the sales appeals of the bicycle man.

A few years ago, cigars were almost threatened with extinction. Cigarette smoking, another product of the World War, increased by leaps and bounds, and cigars were left behind. Advertising had a lot to do with it. But tobacco manufacturers who made both cigars and cigarettes found that cigarette advertising paid while cigar advertising didn't. So they pushed cigarettes, which was what the public preferred. But now cigars seem to be getting back into favor again, and manufacturers of cigars are finding it profitable to advertise them.

The automobile industry furnishes one of the best examples of progress through intense competition. In the comparatively short time since automobiles were first put on the market, literally hundreds of different makes have come and gone. The survivors are the companies who were elected by popular vote of automobile buyers as best qualified to make good cars at low prices.

Orange juice and tomato juice furnish two amazing examples of good merchandising. Almost everybody enjoys these health-giving food drinks today, and only a few years ago they were unheard of. This achievement of advertising was possible only because consumers enthusiastically approved the idea presented to them.

Good merchandising is as essential to progress as technical advance, and it is through the merchandising channel that the public expresses its will. That is where the consumer shows who is the big boss of business.

Kiwanians Hear Of Sale of Seals

Miss Katherine Murphy and Judge Fowler Talk

The program at the noonday luncheon meeting of Kiwanis Thursday was devoted to the interest of the Ulster County Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health and particularly to the sale of Christmas Seals. Judge Joseph M. Fowler, president of the committee, presented the speakers, Miss Katherine M. Murphy, secretary and county nurse, and the Rev. Maurice W. Venno, Judge Fowler, who for a long term of years has been active in the fight to exterminate the white plague and whose efforts were in a great degree responsible for the building of the Ulster County Hospital, in introducing the Rev. Mr. Venno took occasion to refer to the recent action of a group of East Kingston residents, all of Italian birth or ancestry, in buying defense bonds. Commending the act Judge Fowler remarked that "loyalty ought not to be measured by a person's place of birth or ancestry." The Rev. Mr. Venno, commenting on the lighthouse, which is on the cover of the Christmas seal folder and which also features the seal this year, spoke of the lighthouses on the coast of his native state of Maine. He told the story of a girl of 14 who for 21 days kept the light burning and saved many ships, her father having gone to the shore for supplies and being unable to get back. "That is the spirit of the TB campaign," he said.

Although through the work that has been done the incidence of tuberculosis has been greatly reduced since the first seals were sold in 1907, there were 60,000 deaths from the disease in the United States last year, the Rev. Mr. Venno stated. As a comparison he noted that whereas in the period from June 1940 to April 1941 36,000 persons were killed in air raids in England, during the same period in the U. S. there were 51,000 deaths from tuberculosis.

Ninety-five per cent of the money received from Christmas seal sales is expended in communities where the seals were raised, the Rev. Mr. Venno told the Kiwanians. The committee's activities cover a nurse service, chest clinics, home visiting and Camp Happyland, where upward of 100 children each year are given four weeks of health-building activity and recreation.

Introducing Miss Murphy Judge Fowler said that because of her many public appearances and her long fight against tuberculosis, her personality and the manner in which she carries on her work, "there is hardly anyone better known in Ulster county."

Miss Murphy spoke with warm appreciation of the support given by members of Kiwanis and the people of Kingston and Ulster county generally to the work of the committee and the sale of Christmas seals. She said that after 35 years the sale of seals this year, to date is greater than ever before. Many are doubting their contributions she said. She referred to the recent celebration of the tenth anniversary of the opening of the TB Hospital and the work done by Judge Fowler in support of the movement to establish it. Miss Murphy also told of the fine work being done by Camp Happyland in building up the health of boys and girls. "I am very grateful for the support that has been received," she said.

During the business session Thursday Paul Zucca reported that the committee to make arrangements for a ball to be held February 13, the first in several years, after deliberation had voted that the affair be put off for the present. Mr. Zucca said that the committee felt that such action was proper in view of the many demands upon people at this time—the large amount being asked for Red Cross work, Hospital support and other like activities. On an expression of opinion the Kiwanians approved the action taken by the committee.

In addition to his service under Sheriff Molyneux he served as an assistant jailor in 1932 under Sheriff Wright J. Smith and also a special deputy during Sheriff John H. Saxe's term of office.

Mummified Miniature

Man Found in Rockies

One of the most unique anthropological finds ever recorded on this continent was made in October, 1932, in the Pedro mountains, a chain of the Rockies, about 65 miles southwest of Casper, Wyo., by two gold prospectors, Frank Garr and Cecil M. Main. These men were blasting with dynamite in a gulch at the foot of one of the chains of mountains comprising a rugged range. The explosion opened up a natural cave approximately 15 feet long by four feet wide and four feet deep. Upon closer investigation, Main discovered, after crawling on his hands and knees through the small opening, an archeological freak in the form of a mummified miniature man, squatting on a rocky ledge with arms folded, head bowed slightly and legs in a semi-kneeling posture.

The little pygmy measures 6 1/2 inches in its squatting position, approximately 18 to 20 inches in standing position, weighs three-fourths of a pound, but is thought to have been much heavier in life. The noticeable features are the bronze skin, low forehead, flat nose, flat, unintelligent head with a fringe of black and gray hair. The sex of the specimen is plainly masculine, with its determining organs well preserved. It has a full set of teeth and its eyes, although glazed, appear distinctly. It is estimated that the pygmy was approximately 65 years old at death. There are noticeable traces of very fine hair on the body. An X-ray picture of the mummy reveals human vertebrae and all other identifiable bones of the body even to the muscles. The left clavicle bone shows a fracture and marks on the body indicate that death undoubtedly resulted from wounds. Also discernible by X-ray is the food in the stomach, which appears to have been raw meat. The teeth in the front of the mouth are pointed and of the flesh-eating variety.

Gloves Originally Worn Only by 'Gentlemen'

The story of gloves is a long and romantic one. From time immemorial the glove has entered history to dramatize incidents and mark, in one way or another, the gentleman or the lady. Covering the hands probably began through a practical need for protection in early struggles for the necessities of life. According to historical records, gloves, originally, were worn only by men, and then principally on state occasions such as special military or royal ceremonies. By such discrimination they were confined for the most part to the highest ranks of dress, where they were of primary importance in affairs of chivalry and coronation of sovereigns.

Before the Thirteenth century there was some use of the mitten for women, but no finger gloves; the first of these being made of linen about the period of the Restoration. Following this period, gloves are mentioned in various ways as symbols of rank, retirement, championships, or sovereignty. Many other notable roles have been played by the romantic glove all through the ages, among the most commonly recognized being the presentation of a glove as a pledge of security; a gesture of defiance made by flinging the glove across the cheek of an opponent to challenge to a duel; as token of faith between betrothed, and as a tribute of honor. Since then till now the glove has been an important apparel requisite for the lady as well as the gentleman.

Corner Desk

A desk which combines the best of modern styling with 18th Century feeling is shown above. It is made of birch, and the pulls are of plastic. The lamp likewise combines classical feeling with contemporary design.

Nights on Soviet Steppes Give Vivid Idea of What Germans Are Up Against

Wild Elements Enough
Without Added Woe of Red Troops for Invading Forces

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

With the Red army on the Moscow front, Dec. 19 (AP)—Spend a couple of nights out on the Russian Steppes suffering wind, snow and cold and you have an idea what the Germans are up against on the eastern front.

I have just been through two such nights.

The elements at their wildest, whining and moaning weirdly on the broad plains, broken here and there by stark forest, strike every living thing exposed to them and make death by freezing an ever-present danger. That is one of the important reasons why the Germans are now falling back from advanced positions near Moscow and seeking winter quarters.

You have no conception of the violence of this Russian winter as you drive out of the towns and villages where the Soviet troops keep warm in well-equipped quarters.

It is only when you get into the open where the Germans have been forced to seek shelter in the forests or in shattered settlements that you feel the full effect.

Then you see that the greatest danger, whether he be a Napoleon or a Hitler, met in this weather is a foe more than worthy of his mettle.

I noticed the weather as an interesting natural phenomenon while riding out of Moscow toward the front on a bright, crisp day. Gradually slate-gray clouds covered the sky.

Toward nightfall the snow began and suddenly darkness came. Groping through blinding swirls of snow in the pitchblack night, the car ran slower and slower. The road disappeared under the drifts. Finally the car lunged into a ditch settling up to the hubcaps in snow.

No Signs of Life

There were no signs of life anywhere. There was nothing to do but sit in the car until daybreak. Then the weather became a personal foe.

There were six of us in the car, the Russian driver, a guide, one Australian, two British correspondents and myself. We sat in cramped quarters straight up-right as much as would German motorized infantry in stalled troop carriers.

The wind screamed at doors and windows and penetrated the car. The snow drifted higher. The cold settled closer and closer.

We recalled the tales of people freezing to death, of wolves roaming in packs on these steppes. We started telling jokes until memories ran out of stories so old everyone knew them.

Pressing close together to keep warm we dozed fitfully.

Finally gray morning light filtered through the windows. An army truck plowing through the drifts came down the road. Troops heaved us out of the ditch and broke a path to the highway.

The second night was clear and star-lit with the wind ripping snow from the road and leaving a treacherous coat of ice. Driving out to a front-line town, we came to a valley where the car could neither skid up the hill ahead nor retrace its path on the slippery hill behind us. There was nothing to do but walk back four miles to town.

Sliding over the ice, falling in the snow we trudged along much as would German troops trying to advance.

The wind stung our faces, snow clutched at our feet and the starlight wrought ominous shadows and strange mirages from distant trees.

Walking Indian file and talking in hushed tones to keep together without attracting attention, we finally reached the blacked-out town.

A door opened, letting a cloud of steam and a shaft of light into the night and we entered a warm haven to find food and a fire.

I hate to think what it might have been like if the Red army as well as the weather had been against us.

Research Offers Hope in Control Of Blight to Trees

Dutch Elm Disease Study at New Haven Brings Experiment to Be Told to Science

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 19 (AP)—Research conducted during the past two years in this "city of elms" led scientists to announce today that there was some hope of controlling the Dutch elm disease, a blight discovered 11 years ago, by injecting certain chemicals into the affected trees.

An investigation by Dr. George Zentmyer of the Connecticut Agricultural experiment station, working to prevent the elm from going the way of the American chestnut, led to a theory that a fungus infecting the internal structure of diseased elms produced a toxin responsible for the symptoms noted in trees affected by the blight.

In his experiment Dr. Zentmyer, who will report on his findings at the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science beginning December 29 in Dallas, Tex., grew the Dutch elm fungus in a special liquid nutrient solution containing yeast extract. Then he injected the fungus into cuttings of seedling tomato, snapdragon, elm and other plants and also in small elms in the field. In every case, he said, it caused a whitening of the foliage symptomatic of the Dutch elm disease. He was not, however, able to isolate the suspected toxin, although he believes this should be possible.

The next step was to find a counteracting chemical, and over 100 substances, including the well-known sulfa drugs, were used on 850 small elms and 25 larger ones in efforts to prevent or control the disease.

Of these, five or six chemicals, Dr. Zentmyer said, have shown promise in retarding progress of the fungus in small trees or in preventing its growth if applied before the tree becomes infected.

He listed benzoic acid, hydroquinone and 8-hydroxyquinoline benzoate as among the most effective. The experiment station said it would not, however, recommend specific agents as cures for the Dutch elm disease, because the work was not sufficiently advanced.

Oklahoma City, Dec. 19 (AP)—Dewey (Snorter) Luster, University of Oklahoma football coach, says that phrase "national defense" has outlived its usefulness. "Let's call it offense from now on," he suggested in a speech. "We're going to have to carry the ball. You can't score on the defense."

Wallkill Manufacturing Company Suit Settled

New York, Dec. 18 (Special)—A suit by Charles Tolleris, Stanley A. Katcher and Martin F. Comeau, trustees in bankruptcy of the Wallkill Manufacturing Company, to collect $40,773, representing assets of the company transferred to its factors, H. M. Hushman and Bro. of New York, was settled for $2,750 during the second trial of the case before Judge Edward A. Conger in Federal District Court here today. The first trial ended in a jury disagreement earlier this week.

The amount recovered is to be used for redistribution among general creditors of the company, who were allegedly deprived of their rightful share in the assets through the granting of preference to the defendants. The Hushman firm claimed that it had a continuing prior lien on all goods and accounts receivable of the Wallkill concern.

Grant Employees' Bonus

Grant Company, which operates 496 popular priced department stores throughout the country, will give a 1941 Christmas bonus to all regular full-time and part-time employees who have been with the company more than six months. The company will also give Christmas bonuses to the 150 Grant men now on military leave of absence in training camps and on active duty with the army and navy. Forty one residents of this city employed in the Grant store here are eligible.

Wallkill Man Indicted On Still Charges

New York, Dec. 18 (Special)—Charged with the possession of two unlicensed stills and a quantity of mash, Edward James Cassent of Wallkill was indicted today in United States District Court here.

The stills, each of 25-gallon capacity, were allegedly at his own residence and at the Odell-Morris Farm, New Vernon-Winterdon Road, Manakating, Sullivan county. Other counts allege the possession of 215 gallons of mash, intended for distillation.

Assistant United States Attorney Edward Behrens, who is in charge of the case, will arraign Cassent next week.

Ruppert Bonus

George E. Ruppert, president of the Jacob Ruppert Brewery today announced in connection with plans for the annual Christmas bonus for employees, that each employee will receive a United States Defense Bond and that a program has been established whereby each employee who purchases a similar bond before July 1, 1942, would be presented by the brewery with an additional bond. At the same time it was announced that the Ruppert Brewery had purchased for its own account $100,000 worth of United States Defense Bonds.

President Plans Big Yule Party Despite Warfare

By RUTH COWAN

Washington, Dec. 19 (AP)—Santa Claus needn't let anti-aircraft weapons guarding the nation's capital scare him away, because he is expected at the White House.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt are going ahead with "Christmas as usual." For the Chief Executive that means a tree-lighting ceremony Christmas Eve, with up to 30,000 neighbors joining the party on the White House grounds.

For Mrs. Roosevelt it means a round of Christmas basket parties. For both it means a White House office staff reception, church on Christmas Day, turkey and seeing what Santa brought.

The nation's No. 1 Christmas tree, this year glittering with red, white and blue lights (if there isn't a blackout), will be set up within the White House grounds instead of on the ellipse—the park midway between the executive mansion and the Washington monument—as in the past.

This is in line with Mr. Roosevelt's wish. Last year he told his audience at the tree-lighting ceremony that "if we are all here" he wanted the folks to come swing around a tree on the White House grounds.

In anticipation of this a tall spruce was planted on the south lawn, and those in charge of the Washington community Christmas tree celebration say they've been given the word to go ahead and decorate it.

Also they report that the invitation to come see the President light the tree and hear him deliver the yuletide message to the nation—and to the world by short wave—still stands. The President is to speak from the south portico at 5:11 p. m. (EST), December 24.

What! No Politics? State's Lawmakers Say That, but Nobody Takes It Seriously

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 19 (AP)—Prepare a cheer for New York lawmakers who insist "there will be no politics" at the forthcoming legislative session. But—don't let that holler go too soon.

The legislators, convening January 7, are determined to keep politics out of wartime legislation. Any measure even faintly tinted red, white and blue undoubtedly will be studied without partisan view.

But there will be non-defense matters, too, coming before the legislators. And war or no war, a governor is to be elected next fall. Senators and assemblymen must run the election gauntlet again.

Temptations to forget "there will be no politics" may occur frequently when, for example, a legislator thinks of trying to hold his job at the fall election. He'll probably become the first to reject any political gestures which might please his party constituents back home.

The Legislature's scheduled consideration of reappointment, one of the hottest political subjects in the state, also may tease a few into urging a smart political maneuver.

But under the "no politics" agreement, the Republican-controlled reappointment committee may submit its plan to reassign legislative and congressional districts without fear of the other party's usual howl of protest.

Any Republican reappointment plan in the past has brought Democratic accusations it would assure their opponents permanent legislative control. Democratic ideas of reappointment have produced similar shrieks from Republicans.

The result: No reappointment. But, of course, there'll be no political bickering over the subject now.

A little matter of finance must be considered too.

With an eye to being hailed as "the economy party" in politically important 1942, majority Republicans have snipped and snipped at Democratic Governor Lehman's proposed state budget for three years in a row.

The budget reductions stirred the Legislature's biggest political battles. Democrats howled the cuts were misleading, juggling of accounts, and inspired purely by politics. The "no politics" pact prevents such bitter struggles even though it will be the big election year.

It's nice that's all over.

Violent Battle Is Being Fought Now On British Island

U. S. Might Be Faced With Problem of Aid for Singapore Against Japanese

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

Things look bad for the British stronghold of Hongkong—one of the badges of England's imperial prestige—where the Japanese have effected a landing and captured half the island in a violent battle which was continuing at latest reports.

It is this great base falls it will be a tough blow—though it will be far from fatal—to the allied strategic set-up.

For one thing it will increase the threat to the Philippines by at once depriving the allies of a prime defensive position and giving the Japs another naval and air base within easy striking distance of Manila.

This would add to the burden of our defense of the Philippines at a moment when there may be a question of whether we will be asked to send naval and air aid to support the British against the heavy Japanese drive on Singapore.

In other words, if the threat against Singapore increases we may be faced with the uncomfortable problem of whether the Philippines shall be placed in further jeopardy in order to save the British base which strategically is of greater importance.

What struck me as a forecast of such a dilemma cropped up last Tuesday when an informed source in London told the press that the Japanese offensive on the Malay peninsula and Britain's lack of naval superiority had raised a serious threat to Singapore. Now a statement of that sort isn't made without some vital reason back of it, especially since it lends encouragement to the enemy. It looked very much like a signal to America for help.

No Milk Is Spilt

However, the milk hasn't been spilt yet at either Singapore or the Philippines, and there's no use in watering it with tears in advance of evil which may never come. Let's give reinforcements a chance to reach the Far East before getting pessimistic.

Not overlooking that the battle of the Pacific is only a part of the world war, the allies find much for satisfaction in the tussle with Herr Hitler. If the British sustain their claim to have smashed the Axis resistance in Africa, the allies have won a major victory.

It weakens the Axis threat to control of the Mediterranean area. It will greatly lessen the effectiveness of any future drive the Germans may attempt into the Middle East through the Caucasus or Turkey.

Then we have the amazing Russians who are free-wheeling in after the retreating Nazis so fast that 138 more villages are reported to have fallen into the Red bag in fresh operations. Large quantities of war material are said to have been taken by the Bolsheviks and, despite the German retirement, fierce fighting appears to be taking place in some sectors.

Cynical people, in whose minds still rankles the Russian demand pact of 1939, continue to bombard this column with inquiries as to whether the Red counter-offensive and the Nazi withdrawal are a putup job and the forerunner of another treaty of brotherhood between the two.

Doesn't Make Sense

Well, your correspondent freely admits that crazy things can happen in this war, but that solution of the great Hitlerian retreat just doesn't make sense. It seems to me that we are trying to be too erudite, and are being unfair to an ally, however, when we arrive at such a very smart conclusion.

The simple answer takes into account that these two nations are natural enemies, as I pointed out a few days ago. Hitler badly overreached himself in his efforts to crush the Bolsheviks, and Stalin's forces are taking advantage of the distress of the invaders.

There's nothing phony about that Russian winter. As Henry Cassidy, Associated Press correspondent with the Red army on the Moscow front, says on this same page "the elements at their wildest, whining and moaning weirdly on the broad plains, broken here and there by stark forests, strike every living thing exposed to them and make death by freezing an ever present danger."

That's why Hitler's armies are pulling back and abandoning a wealth of war material as they go. They have been caught in that wild waste with over-extended communications. They expected a quick victory over the Muscovites and didn't come prepared for winter fighting. Many of them are freezing to death and the rest must be suffering terribly. They are falling back to escape horrid death in the open.

That's the real story as I see it.

CHRISTMAS PARTY WOULD SOLVE THIS PROBLEM

The solution to the following questions, it seems to me, is almost automatically answered by the fact that it will soon be Christmas. The question is sent by the mother of a very young girl who wants to marry a boy who is also very young. Her parents and his parents both approve of their future marriage, but do not want to announce any engagement until they are older.

The problem of the moment is that news of their "engagement" has leaked out among the friends of both families as well as of the young people themselves, with this result, described by the girl's mother:

"His relatives want to meet our daughter, and ours, their son. But what can we do to keep the idea of engagement from being put into the papers if his mother, who has a very big house, should give a party in honor of my daughter? His mother would like to give this party and of course my daughter is thrilled at the idea, but it seems to me that this would be tantamount to announcing the engagement. What would you suggest, if anything?"

I think, as I have already noted, that a Christmas party is the perfect answer. Or even two Christmas parties—a dance for young people given by his mother, a New Year's Day "at home" by you. Intimate older friends of his family could perfectly well go to the dance, and relatives and friends of all ages always go to New Year egg-nog at home. Neither party would be in honor of anyone; they would simply be typical holiday parties at which your daughter and their son can meet all those who are interested in them.

Table Service

Dear Mrs. Post: In removing things from the table after the meat course, which ones should be removed first? I mean in a house where serving dishes are put on the table.

Answer: There is no definite rule of course, but it seems to me that it is best to take away the individual plates first, then the platter, then the vegetable dishes, then the condiments. This is in the order of their unattractiveness. Used plates are certainly more unattractive than the dishes.

A Tailored Suit at Lunch Party
Dear Mrs. Post: It is impossible to wear a tailored suit to a lunch party? If so, should one remove the coat? Or would it be better to sit at table with the coat on?

Answer: A tailored suit is very fashionable; in fact, at the smartest lunches in New York, many women wear suits. Sometimes they keep their jackets on; sometimes they leave them in the dressing-room. A very transparent lace or embroidered net blouse is seldom, if ever, worn without a jacket. One who is wearing a heavy crepe or, more likely, satin blouse of a very pale tint and with wrist-length sleeves, usually leaves her jacket in the dressing-room—but not necessarily. Suits, by the way, are very becoming to the thin, but cruelly over-stuffed to the fat!

Dinner Is Given For Mayor-elect

G. W. Van Slyke & Horton Employees Pay Tribute

Officers and employees of G. W. Van Slyke & Horton, Inc., cigar manufacturers of Kingston, with their wives and other friends, to the number of nearly 200, gave a testimonial dinner to Mayor-elect William F. Edelmuth, who has been sales representative of the company for the past 23 years.

The dinner was given at the Governor Clinton Hotel and was a most enjoyable affair despite the feeling of regret that was felt by all over the severance of the friendly business relations that had maintained for so many years. A feature of the occasion was the presentation to Mr. Edelmuth of a desk set and a radio clock. The presentation on behalf of Mr. Edelmuth's associates was made by Albert H. Maspons, plant superintendent. He spoke of the 23 years of "remarkable record, won by hard work, efficiency, dependability and honesty in the promotion and sales of Peter Schuyler cigars," made by the guest of honor of the evening, and his acclaim by the people of Kingston as their choice for mayor. He added, "As loyal citizens of this community we pledge with pride our every effort in support of such ideals as may bring forth to us all a better city to live in and to him a happier people to work for."

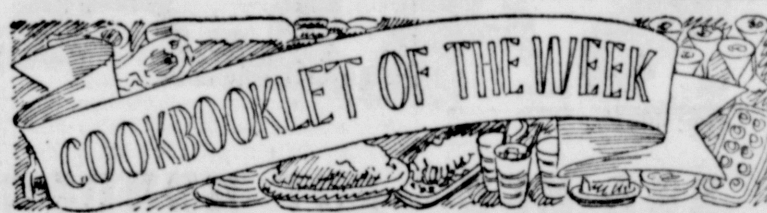

Preceding the presentation Mr. Maspons referred at some length to the situation which faces America at this time. He voiced assurance that the gigantic power of the "devilish makers of this outrageous war that has been thrown upon us" would melt "in a furnace of American ingenuity, American stamina and American courage." He saw every one of the 130,000,000 American men and women standing ready to meet "every denial, every sacrifice, every demand that may be placed upon our shoulders to carry on. Mr. Maspons asked his hearers to reject a war of nerves, to reject insidious propaganda on the part of enemies here as well as enemies abroad "which has for its only target the undermining of our health, the undermining of our strength, the very existence, so that they may sneak behind our backs and strike their mortal blow."

Mr. Edelmuth responded feelingly to the tribute that had been paid to him. He referred to the many years of pleasant association that had passed and said that he appreciated most highly the gift that had been presented to him. Its use will bring continued remembrance of the pleasant associations I have had and the friendship of all those with whom I have worked, he said. He thanked President Thomas Horton, Vice-President John Herlihy and other officials of the company for the cooperation and kind treatment that always had been extended to him.

Testimonial Dinner for Edelmuth

Mayor-elect William F. Edelmuth, former sales representative of G. W. Van Slyke & Horton, Inc., was guest of honor at a testimonial dinner tendered by about 250 executives, employees and their wives, last night at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Mr. Edelmuth was with the company about 23 years. Shown in the above photo is Mr. Edelmuth receiving a present from Superintendent Albert H. Maspons, who is shown on Mr. Edelmuth's right.

MANY KINDS OF SALAD DRESSING TO VARY TASTE APPEAL SUGGESTED

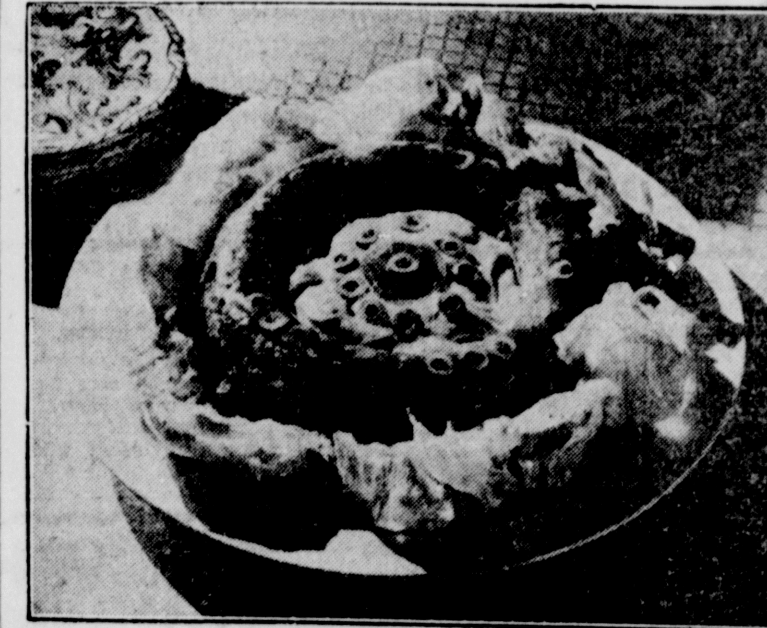

The right kind of salad dressing will often make an ordinary salad of fruits or vegetables outstanding. To give scope to this phase of salad-making, the new Cookbooklet, "500 Delicious Salads," devotes an entire section to recipes for different kinds of dressings. There are bland mayonnaise and tart French dressings—sweet, frothy toppings and rich, herb flavored combinations. Be bold in your experiments and try new and exciting flavor combinations on your salad dishes.

With mayonnaise as a base, there are 32 variations using cheese, tomatoes, wines, curry, cauliflower, anchovies, cottage cheese and jellies to add new notes to accepted methods. There are eggless dressings—fruit flavored dressings—and many recipes that are so economical, your food budget won't

1 tablespoon vinegar
Dash cayenne
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup chilled evaporated milk
1 cup chilled olive or salad oil
Beat first 8 ingredients with rotary egg beater until well blended. Add 1/3 cup oil and beat well. Add another 1/3 cup oil and beat. Add the remaining oil and beat again. Serve the dressing shortly after making. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

Frozen Tomato Mayonnaise
4 tomatoes, peeled and chopped
1 teaspoon minced onion
1 cup Mayonnaise
3/4 teaspoon salt,
Dash cayenne.

Combine all ingredients; pour mixture into freezing tray of refrigerator and freeze without stirring. Serve in the hollow of a peeled half avocado garnished with salad greens. Serves 6.

Filling the center of your mold with dressing beautifies your salad and adds flavor. Dressings often mean the success of a salad, so be sure to see the special section in our latest booklet on salads.

Realtors Believe County Is Safe Place to Live

That Ulster county is a safe place in which to live was the consensus of opinion expressed Thursday evening at the meeting of the Ulster County Real Estate Board held at McCabe's Restaurant on Wall street.

The meeting was devoted largely to a discussion relative to conditions now existing in Kingston and Ulster county. The members of the board expressed the opinion that they have a great service to render those who are looking for safety and sound investments.

From a survey made by the board the official records reveal that more real estate changed hands in 1941 in Kingston and Ulster county than in the past several years. This, they believed, indicated that the period of deflation has passed and that the pendulum has started to swing in the opposite direction.

The board voted to support any and all defense measures and to extend to all seeking information relative to real estate the benefit of their wide experience in the real estate field.

Medical Students Help Girl Return to College

WALTHAM, MASS.—Miss Louisa Kun Sil Shung of Honolulu, T. H., Middlesex university's favorite girl student, will return to college because the sophomore class of medical students dug into their pockets to bring her back.

The boys had elected Miss Chung, an honor student, as class secretary, but she failed to register this fall, so they investigated and found that illness in her family made it impossible for her to get the necessary funds.

So they voted to raise her tuition by assessing each sophomore medical student. The university joined the campaign by offering her an NYA position and a $100 scholarship.

Miss Chung, a graduate of the University of Hawaii who received a master of science degree from the University of Pittsburgh, wired her thanks and said she was en route.

Auto Light Glare Hits Women Worst, Tests Show

BERKELEY, CALIF.—Glare blindness caused by automobile headlights lasts longer in women than in men, University of California experimenters reported.

Tests were made on 150 students by Dr. C. W. Brown, H. P. Torkelson and L. B. Fisk, psychologists. A blinding light was flashed into their faces to simulate conditions in night driving.

Male students as a group showed a recovery time of almost 10 seconds less than the women. The experimenters found that the average recovery time for normal vision was 25.2 seconds.

Junior Defense Council Is Organized

Freeman Photo

Kingston's Junior Council of Defense was organized Wednesday evening at a meeting held in the Y. M. C. A., which had been called by Secretary George Goodfellow of the "Y," who is chairman of the advisory committee.

Mayor C. J. Heiselman, who addressed the children, told them of the important part they could play in helping their country during the present emergency.

Secretary Goodfellow outlined the plans to the children for collecting newspapers, magazines, tin foil and scrap iron, and then presented Raymond Rignall, Dr. Sidney Wolff, Andrew Gilday and Alfred Doyle, the other members of the advisory committee.

Under the plans as outlined at the meeting the children will go to work during the Christmas vacation discovering sources of materials needed and arrangements have been made with the principals of the schools to provide a place where the children may deposit their collections.

Acting Superintendent Max Oppenheimer of the Board of Public Works, will have a city truck collect the waste materials from the schools daily.

Citizens having waste paper they wish to contribute to this group are urged to get in touch with any of the children or any member of the committee.

The materials will be sold and the proceeds turned over to the city defense council to aid in defense work in Kingston.

The children who attended last night's meeting are shown in the photograph. They are:

Fifth Column Back In 1851 Hinted At

Suggested in Letter Penned By Louis Kossuth.

PITTSBURGH.—The presence of fifth columnists 90 years ago is hinted in a letter written by Louis Kossuth, Hungarian patriot of the last century. The letter has been willed to the University of Pittsburgh.

It was written on September 27, 1851, aboard the United States battleship Mississippi at Marseille, France. In it Kossuth described a trip to England and America to win sympathy for his unsuccessful fight for Hungary's liberation, and expressed confidence the traitors from within would be overcome.

"When the day arrives on which we shall break the yoke of tyrants forever the nation shall not be afraid that ambitious traitors will be able to frustrate our historic struggles," the Hungarian patriot wrote.

He wrote the letter just after he had been rescued from a Turkish prison by a United States gunboat that steamed through the Dardanelles and demanded his release.

"I...as prevented temporarily by force from the execution of my gubernatorial powers, but the legality of the source from which this office has its origin cannot be weakened," Kossuth wrote in support of his theory of "government in exile," prevalent today among nations that have been conquered by Germany.

"I will continue to exercise the rights of my office until I am definitely convinced that the nation is in a position to determine her future herself."

The letter will be presented officially to the university early next year during a nation-wide celebration of the ninetieth anniversary of Kossuth's visit to America.

Wyoming in 1941 received the largest amount, $822,295.97, under the conservation program of the Department of Interior, for using public lands for lumbering and grazing, for mineral and potash production.

Second Alarm Is Sounded On City's Signal System

For the second time during our war with the Axis powers an alarm was sounded—666—over the city's fire alarm system which was a signal for Kingston residents to tune in to the local radio station to receive a communication from the Kingston Defense Council.

station heard Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy announce that a telegram had been received from General O'Ryan, state director of Civilian Defense, outlining the new signals that would be given to announce an air raid over the city.

The change in the signals was made so that they would conform with similar signals all over the state.

The new signal system will be found elsewhere in The Freeman.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

War Time Justice
Sound Bend, Ind.—Raymond Rhodes, 56, pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk—but pleaded too that he was a skilled worker in a factory turning out army trucks.

City Judge George A. Shock suspended a 30-day jail term.

"We must," said the judge, "keep the nation's war effort in mind at all times."

"Not the Yuletide Spirit—"
Bedford, Ind.—Catching the Christmas spirit, the Elks lodge put up an evergreen tree before the front door of its clubhouse.

Not catching the Christmas spirit, burglars hid behind the tree while they shattered the door glass to steal in and take $50 from the cash register.

All Out
Seattle—Quinn Anderson and Franklin Couch meant it just for a tree house.

But with news of aerial bombardment of Hawaii their shelter underwent hasty remodeling.

They now man Seattle's first schoolboy air raid lookout post, complete with field glasses and wall silhouettes of enemy planes.

"Better Late Than Never—"
New York—They were sent to Britain as Christmas gifts, and what's more they arrived in time for Christmas.

But—the shipment of 500 presents by Camp Fire Girls, Inc. was intended for Christmas, 1940, and had been lost a year in transit the organization said today.

Emphatically Anti
Arkansas City, Kas.—Dr. H. W. Dummit came downstairs after presiding over a meeting of the Anti-Thief Association chapter. He looked up the street. Then down.

His car had been stolen.

Spreading the News?
Portland, Ore.—The Portland air base can use a new shoe shine boy.

The lad, at work when news was flashed of the attack on Pearl Harbor, set a shined shoe down beside its unpolished mate and left.

He hasn't been seen since.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

Study Club Meets

New Palz, Dec. 18—The study club heard an inspiring talk by Mrs. Seymour Purdy, Ninth District Leader of New York Federated Clubs, at their meeting Tuesday. After giving some highlights on the work of the federation, Mrs. Purdy listed four major sources of education, namely, church, school, library and museum. She said that the aim of education for every boy and girl was to train the youth of America to be good citizens. A boy should be taught the responsibility of the head of the house and a girl should be taught the standards and duties of a good wife. Courtesy in the home and the value of religious training all contribute toward the goal in view. Mrs. Purdy concluded with the thought that the family unit is the basis of our national character. Tea was served following the meeting. Mrs. Isaac Bell and Mrs. A. C. Grimm poured. Mrs. Robert Baum was chairman of the refreshment committee and Mrs. Howard B. Hoffman the reception chairman.

Women's Club Has Special Program

The Women's Club of the Y. W. C. A. felt particularly fortunate in having secured for its Christmas program yesterday afternoon, the services of Myra Ripley in her presentation of Katrina Trask's play, "Holy Night." Unlike many plays concerning the nativity, the dramatic story pictured the miracle effect upon the life and times in Bethlehem and Rome.

Mrs. Ripley, a graduate of Ithaca College, has had years of experience in acting and play directing and the smoothness of the recital reflected the immense amount of work and care which went into it. Mrs. Ripley enacted eight roles in so effective a manner that the audience had no difficulty in distinguishing the characters.

The play centers around Faustina, a daughter of a Roman noble. Although she has a suite of rooms at the inn in Bethlehem, she will not give one up for Mary and Joseph. Following her father's wishes, Faustina becomes betrothed to a Roman although she loves a Greek poet. Despondent she wanders through the fields of Bethlehem and contracts leprosy, which causes her to become an outcast. This was Mrs. Ripley's most dramatic scene.

News reaches her after 30 years that the poet is to return to the town, and at the same time she learns of the healing power possessed by a man who had been born in a manger. Realizing that this man is the son of the couple to whom she refused a room, she goes to him in all humility and is healed, before the poet finds her. Throughout the play music was played.

Following the presentation, a tea was held for the members and their guests. The table was most attractively decorated with red candles and silver balls in antique setting surrounded with greens in keeping with the Christmas season. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Thomas Reynolds and Mrs. Herbert Fister. Mrs. Harry Yale arranged for the tea, assisted by Mrs. Ralph Harper and Mrs. Russell Gaele.

During the business sessions several announcements were made. A home nursing group will be started after the Christmas holiday. All members desiring to join should call Mrs. Thomas Reynolds.

School-or-Play Frock

Marian Martin
PATTERN 9923

Children's lives are full of variety—it's time to play one minute and go to school the next! Their little frocks must be adaptable, says Marian Martin, and designs Pattern 9923. The bodice side sections are cut with a bolero-like curve and a pointed center panel tops the inverted pleat in the skirt. This same center panel may be made of contrast fabric together with the collar and sleeve bands—accent it with buttons or lace it up with ribbon or braid! The skirt has a panel in the back, and the rick-rack may continue along the seam at the waist. You can see for yourself what charming versions are possible . . . the Sew Chart will help you make them quickly.

Pattern 9923 may be ordered only in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6, dress all one fabric, requires 1½ yards 35 inch fabric and ¾ yard contrast. Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins for this MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS, and STYLE NUMBER.

Here's a clever idea! Women who haven't "perfect figures" (and not many of us have), may now be sure of having their smart MARIAN MARTIN frocks fit perfectly! The secret? Just order our SURE-FIT FOUNDATION PATTERN 9696 in your size, adjust it to your own figure measurements in tissue, cut it out in muslin—and you have a permanent guide to use when making all your frocks. You pin your dress patterns right to it to make necessary changes. Send for Pattern 9696 today. Designed for sizes 12 to 20; 30 to 50. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards 35 inch fabric. Price 15c.

Send your order to Kingston Daily Freeman, Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th St., New York, N. Y.

LAST MINUTE GIFT SUGGESTIONS

Ambidextrous gloves—fit either hand.

U. S. Civilian Flying Corps insignia lighter.

Gifts to get and the days march steadily on toward Christmas morning! Here are some last minute specials around a dollar or less:

For Her
NAIL polish in zifty box, plastic cigarette case, initialed handkerchief (maybe batiste instead of linen), salad fork and spoon for a hostess, novelty animal salt and pepper shakers in wood or pottery.

A Christmas card book, Christmas candle that smells like pine, lipstick, black-out tassels for lamps, knitted after-ski or bed slippers, American Indian jewelry.

For Him

PLASTIC belt, initialed matches, tie suitable to his taste, pencil with light in the end, cigarette case long enough for the brand he smokes, a telescope in a case, a muffler without a monogram.

Wool gloves he can drive in, sport socks, poker chips, a big ashtray, a deck of cards, a new game that includes a bit of poker, enlarging papers for cameraman.

For The Children

CUDDLY cloth teddy bear, elephant, monkey clown or panda, a penguin, a fawn, a terry cloth doll, a musical construction toy complete with 64 tunes which a child can tap out by the numbers under the notes.

A set of airplanes or soldiers, a small flashlight, a game of "dig" which is educational but fun, a bedside lamp if he's big enough to want it.

BUT suppose you're going to splurge in a hurry.

For her—a musical door chime, old English hurricane lamps, a mirror she can wear around her neck, travel slippers easy to pack, cultured pearls, a dressing table set in plastic or a sequin butterfly.

For him: A service game kit, an all-wool skiing sweater in snowflake design, corkscrew cuff links.

Senate-House Draft Conference Brings Discord

Disharmony Arises Over Minimum Age at Which Army Induction Would Be Made

Washington, Dec. 19 (AP)—A joint Senate-House conference committee working on Selective Service legislation broke up this morning in what Senator Reynolds (D-N. C.) described as "complete disagreement" on the minimum age at which men would be inducted into the armed forces.

Announcing that the group would meet again at 1:30 p. m., E.S.T., Reynolds said that House members refused to yield on that body's vote to make men from 21 through 44 subject to active service.

The Senate voted yesterday to fix the induction ages from 19 through 44 and Reynolds said he and his colleagues were not disposed to yield on that point. Both Senate and House bills call for the registration of all men from 18 through 64.

Despite the early disagreement, one conferee who asked that his name not be used said this morning's session developed into a "sparring match" and predicted that a compromise would be reached fixing the minimum age at 20.

Administration leaders were encouraging the compromise proposal. Both chambers agreed to expand the present upper age limit for military service to take in men through 44 years, rather than through 35.

Although the Senate voted three times to keep the minimum age of 19, as recommended by army and Selective Service officials, one Senate conferee said there was no doubt he and his colleagues would accept a compromise fixing the limit at 20 years.

Similarly, House conferees reportedly have been urged by leaders to accede to the compromise in the interest of speeding final enactment of the measure.

Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, has said that final passage would be the signal for prompt enrollment of men in the under-21 bracket and those from 35 through 44.

In a memorandum read to the Senate, Hershey said his office already was making preparation to classify such enrollees and add them to the lists from which men will be selected for active service with the army, navy and marines.

Secretary of War Stimson told his press conference yesterday that the army soon would depend entirely upon Selective Service to expand its forces to the greatest strength needed. Voluntary enlistments will be halted as soon as "the present rush subsides," he said.

The Senate approved the legislation by a vote of 79 to two yesterday after six hours of debate, with only Senators Downey (D-Calif.) and Johnson (R-Calif.) opposing it on the final roll call.

46 Elk Are Shot

Concord, N. H., Dec. 19 (AP)—Forty-six elk, weighing about 13,000 pounds, were bagged in the first two-day elk hunt in New Hampshire since Indians roamed the woodlands. The animals, whose depredations had aroused farmers, all were killed in the southwestern section of the state. The hunt, in which 254 participated, closed yesterday.

Hull Denies Any Request Planes Suspend Patrols

Washington, Dec. 19 (AP)—Secretary Hull today formally denied reports spread here that the state department had asked for a suspension of naval patrols around Hawaii during the progress of Hull's negotiations with Japanese envoys.

In biting language, Secretary Hull declared there was not a shred of truth in the report and that he wished to deny it emphatically.

The state department has not conferred with the navy department on the question of patrols around Hawaii or elsewhere in the Pacific, Secretary Hull said, and spreading of such rumors in such critical times could only come from one whom he described as a mighty mean person who was, in effect, joining the fifth column in spreading foul and mendacious rumors.

Rumors and reports, some of which have come from the congressional cloak room, it was said, declared that suspension of patrols around Hawaii during the Hull-Nomura-Kurusu talks had been a major factor in permitting the Japanese to make a surprise attack on Hawaii.

Zelie Stars as Kingston High Trims Port Jervis, 33 to 14

Young Pivot Player Collects 10 Points In First DUSO Win

Maroon Cagers Keep Lead Throughout Contest; Zadany, Sagendorf Get Six Markers

A star in the making was uncovered last night at the municipal auditorium as Kingston High School, making its first home appearance of the season in basketball, trounced Port Jervis 33 to 14.

The potential star was George "Zeke" Zelie, center, who collected 10 points. It was Zelie's scoring and his fine play all the way around which helped the Maroon and White basketball teams to start their DUSO season with a victory.

Port Jervis dropped its third straight in league competition last night. Coach Lou Horsman's cagers couldn't compete with the attack offered by the Colonial City quintet and this was quite evident as the game progressed.

Coach G. Warren Kias' athletes went out to a 9 to 3 lead in the first period. In the second session Kingston collected six more markers to take a 15 to 3 lead. Port was held scoreless in this quarter.

Although the Kiasmen showed traits of a possible pennant winner last night there's still a lot of work to be done before this club can upset Middletown for the title. At present, the Middies appear to be the club headed for the championship.

Besides the fine showing of Zelie, Rod Sagendorf and Al Zadany contributed six points apiece to complete the third beating Port has suffered this year. In the two previous contests, Port has given Newburgh and Monticello a good battle all the way. Last night, however, Kingston was too powerful.

DUSO League teams will be idle now until Friday, January 9, at which time the clubs will resume action following the holidays. Kingston will travel to Liberty on this date.

Bonds as Prizes

Miami, Fla., Dec. 19 (AP)—Owners of winning thoroughbreds will be paid in defense bonds, instead of cash, by Tropical Park this year. In the process, winners of first money in day-to-day races will get a bonus—a $750 bond where the cash winnings would be $700. Payment in bonds will be optional with the winners, but track officials believe most of them will go along with the idea.

L.I.U. Still Winning

New York, Dec. 19 (AP)—Long Island University's basketball team, winner of 59 consecutive games—nine this season—has lost only three out of 137 contests on its own court in eight seasons under Coach Clair Bee. The defeats were by teams using the zone defense, which is most effective on the small L.I.U. court.

In Special Match Sunday

At the Central Recreation Alleys Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock the first money match of major importance ever staged in this city will take place when the Central Recreation Stars meet the New Rochelle Recs in the first block of a six-game test for a $100 purse. In the above photo standing left to right, are the bowlers who will represent Kingston: Johnny Ferraro, Bob Hanley, Randy Kelder, Charlie Tiano and Harold Broskie. Frankie Veach of Poughkeepsie and Pat Tarsio of Newburgh also will perform with the local keggers.

Lake Katrine Club Will Open Grounds Sunday Afternoon

Organization Is Working With Civilian Defense Committee to Help Use of Firearms

The Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club will open its trap and skeet grounds Sunday afternoon. The club is working with the Civilian Defense Committee to establish a school for the purpose of teaching the proper use of firearms.

Those who are interested may receive full details from the Volunteer Office at 247 Clinton avenue. If the schools prove satisfactory, they will be held every weekend, providing the weather is clear. Members of the club will act as instructors. Guns will be available.

There will be trap and skeet shooting Sunday afternoon starting at 2 o'clock. Members of the Gun Club are requested to be on the grounds at 19 o'clock Sunday morning to complete the erection of the club house. The new field is located off the first road after crossing the Saugerties Road Viaduct on Boice's Lane.

At the meeting of the club Tuesday night it was voted to start Old Fashioned Dances at the Lake Katrine Grange Hall every second Friday.

Meets Cochrane Tonight

Miami, Fla., Dec. 19 (AP)—Fast-hitting Bobby Britton, son of a one-time world champion, will get the big chance of his ring career tonight in a non-title fight with Welterweight King Freddie Cochrane. An upset triumph over Cochrane in the main event of the Miami Herald's empty stocking fund show would carry the 23-year-old Britton closer to the top than he has managed to climb in eight years of boxing.

Lost Sweetheart, Found Fortune

Vido Mati, 24, of Barcelona, Spain, lost his sweetheart recently when he broke a date and because of that he inherited a fortune of $250,000. Being a studious student, Vido went to the library to work on a thesis, instead of keeping his date with his sweetheart. At the library he came across the writings of an obscure Spanish philosopher of the Eighteenth century by the name of Hierro. As he turned the pages of the dusty volume he came across a yellowed paper which was the old will of the writer. The will was to the effect that "all his worldly goods to go to the first man who should study this book," which he felt "would be neglected by his unappreciative countrymen." The will was ruled as being legal and Mati collected about a quarter of a million dollars.

'Y' Cage Outfits Play Here Tonight; 3 More Saturday

Varsity Quintet Will Meet Stockport in Feature at 9 P. M.; Whirlwinds Here Tomorrow

Crackers and a local outfit will be played at 8 o'clock. The Varsity is expected to start with Eddie Bock and Jess Shults at forwards, "Bud" Van Buren, center and Andy Dykes and "Chipe" Rhymer, guards.

Stockport has a heavy lineup of players including Leach, Pickett, Edgley, Hanyan, Parchuck, Beebe, Paul and Tom Russell, Clarke and Hazleton. Edgley, Pickett and Parchuck are the reported aces of the squad.

Saturday night three basketball games will be played at the "Y," featuring the Crackers and Varsity quintets. At 7 o'clock the "Y" Seniors play Hyde Park, at 8 o'clock the Crackers against Catskill Reserves and at 9 o'clock the Varsity against the Catskill Whirlwinds.

New Jars for Old

Do you dislike the feel of cream under your fingernails when you scoop a bit of face cream out of a jar? Are you annoyed, too, with the deterioration of cream as a result of exposure to air? Does your thrifty nature revolt at the idea of not being able to use all of the cream in the bottom of a jar? If yes is your answer to the question, you'll be delighted with the new jar top used by a cosmetologist whose creams need no introduction from me. However, the new jar top used on these creams is worth your attention. The top is really a "triple seal" for the cream and keeps it away from air, exposure and fingertips. To use as much—or as little—cream as you desire, all you do is to twist a tiny knob and up comes the required amount of cream—and from the bottom of the jar. Don't ask us the mechanical process. Suffice to say, you always use fresh cream and the top can be transferred from jar to jar—on through the years! Swell idea, and one we think you'll be interested in having at hand.

Palestine has just established its first income tax.

Jimmy Foxx Contributed Another Record Season In 1941 American League

Red Sox First Sacker Batted in More Than 100 Runs for 13th Straight Year

Chicago, Dec. 19 (AP)—Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees wound up as the American League's runs batted in king for 1941, but most of the record performance was contributed by that 34 year old campaigner, Jimmy Foxx, himself a three-time winner of the crown.

Official league averages showed today that Foxx, Boston Red Sox first baseman, participated in three record performances. His total of 105 runs batted in, although 20 below DiMaggio's total, marked the 13th successive year that he has topped the 100 figure. This tied the major league record established by the late Lou Gehrig and also the mark for the most years with 100 or more runs batted in, held jointly by Gehrig and Babe Ruth.

A record he had to himself was that of being top strike out victim the most years. He whiffed 103 times in 1941, the seventh time he has led the league.

Two other records were equalled. Pete Suder and Frank Hayes of Philadelphia each hit into 23 double plays. At the other extreme were George Case of Washington and Jeff Heath of Cleveland, each of whom hit into only five during the season.

It was Heath, too, who finished just behind DiMaggio in the runs batted in race. He got 123. But where DiMaggio drove in his 125 total in 139 games to replace Detroit's Hank Greenberg, the 1940 winner, Heath had his chance in 151 games.

DiMaggio and Heath topped a field of 10 players who clubbed in 100 or more runs. The others were Charlie Keller, New York, 122 in 140 games; Ted Williams, Boston, 120 in 143; Rudy York, Philadelphia, 107 in 149; Sam Chapman, Philadelphia, 106 in 143; Foxx, 105 in 135, and Jim Tabor, Boston, and Cecil Travis, Washington, 101 each in 126 and 152 games respectively.

Other highlights included: While pitchers issued 245 more bases on balls this year than last, the list of hit batsmen was down three at 148. Williams got the most walks, 145, while Dom DiMaggio of Boston was hit the most often, 7. Until 1941, Frank Crosetti of New York for five straight years had led the league in being hit most often.

Serious train wrecks have been increasing in Japan recently.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Dec. 19 (Wide World)—Get ready for an announcement almost any day that Lem Franklin and Bob Pastor will tangle in Cleveland in mid-January. It took Van Mungo, who can get a rise out of most customers, to make a St. Paul writer come to the defense of Minneapolis. Gordon Gilmore, St. Paul sports ed., was the first to voice resentment of Van's cracks about Minneapolis weather. The company that is sponsoring all the other big bowl broadcasts offered $40,000 for the right to air the Rose Bowl but found the price was just double that. They are feeling pretty good about it now. Pat Egan, the Brooklyn Americans' rough and ready young defenseman, took time out the other night to give a bowling demonstration for a 15-year-old feminine fan, Elsa Muller. Pat's score was 89 and Elsa rolled a nifty 201. Harvard, Brown and Amherst have decided to call off their holiday visit to the Fort Lauderdale, (Fla.), swimming "clinic."

Today's Guest Star

Lewis Burton, New York Journal-American: "A crew of 65 carpenters added 2,400 seats to the Green Bay municipal stadium last week in anticipation of a playoff game with the Giants. That distinguished the Packers as the first team to be overconfident against the Chicago Bears."

Jacobs Beachcombing

Louis-Baer fight tickets go on sale Monday and Mike Jacobs has notified all sports writers there'll be absolutely no comps. Most difficult problem about tonight's Jenkins-Angott Brawl is Jenkins. Drumbeater Harry Markson says that's because Lew is ready for a JENKINS do-or-die battle. Angott has lost only one fight a year since 1937 and he already had his licking for this year. Joe Gould is taking over management of Lee Q. Murray, the heavyweight Col. Stoopnagle sponsors (don't forget he's from South Norwalk, Conn.). Gunnar Barlund tries a comeback against Johnny Shkor in Boston next month. Manager Paul Damski has just signed Larry Bolvin of Providence, R. I. Mike Kaplan claims Young Kid McCoy fights like a defense factory. "He keeps running all night."

Travelin' Tom

Tom Limb, Florida Coach, reports: "With scouting California and the Southeastern Conference meeting in Lexington this past week, I have, out of six nights, spent three in the air, two on the train and a half hour at home."

Cleaning the Cuff

Local sports writers expect the Yankees to use Buddy Hassett as bait in a trade for another first sacker (maybe George McQuinn of the Browns) because there's no telling about Johnny Sturm's draft status. Solemn Bernie Bierman stopped the show at the Minnesota grid dinner when he announced that he didn't need any introduction to the players' girl friends because "they undoubtedly have told you what kind of a guy I am." John Borican, the track and field star, is a real all-around performer. As assistant director at the Newark (N. J.) Boys Club, he teaches drawing, sculpture, manual training, runs an Americanism program and leads the kids in play. Figure this one out: A. A. and N. Y. Boxing Commission both suspended Eddie Walker, Chalky Wright's manager, when Hartford Conn., promoters charged Wright with running out on Bobby Ivy. The N. B. A. lifted the suspension but Eddie just got notice he was suspended in New York as a second, too. And Eddie hasn't climbed into a ring in three months.

'nother Note

Larry MacPhail's Christmas card to sports scribes is a booklet on "How to Roast a Turkey." It has been received by several guys who know all about how to roast MacPhail.

Familiar Names Dept.

Notre Dame, Ind. (AP) — The Notre Dame basketball roster includes the names of Ruetz and Wukovits, familiar monikers to followers of the school's athletic fortunes. Bill Wukovits is a younger brother of Tom and Frank, who played baseball and basketball at Notre Dame and also Vic, a star at Illinois in basketball. Ray Ruetz is a younger brother of Joe, football star from 1935 through 1937 and an honor student. Ray at present is studying anthropology and coaching the St. Mary's freshmen in California.

Girls of Britain's Auxiliary Territorial Service will have regular foot inspection.

3 Records Made

Rolling in the Colonial Women's League at the Central Recreation alleys Wednesday night the Joneses established three new league records.

Mrs. Evelyn Provenzano, one of the best women bowlers in the city, made one new mark by scoring a 569 triple. Her scores were 162, 199 and 208. With tallies of 208, 167, 183, 151 and 142, the Joneses established another record in the third game by bowling a 851 game.

A new league high game score, paced by Mrs. Provenzano's 569, made for the winners with a total of 2415. Besides Mrs. Provenzano's high triple, Doris Harvey had a 496, Kay Robertson 479, Evelyn Jones, 458 and R. Schatzel 413.

The Joneses took all three games from the Coq D'Or Keglers. The scores:

Buffalo to Impose Heavy Penalties to Insure Blackouts

Fine of $250 and 6 Months in Prison to Be Meted If Ordinance Is Violated

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 19 (AP)—Air-raid precautions got added legal backing today as Buffalo's law department drafted an ordinance covering real or practice blackouts for the duration of the war.

The statute, proposing a $250 fine and six-months imprisonment for violations of its specific provisions, will be transmitted to the common council Tuesday. It is expected to be in force for the city's first trial blackout December 26.

New York city adopted stiff penalties for air-raid alarm violators Tuesday, and the State Conference of Mayors is preparing statewide legislation to assure compliance with regulations.

The conference announced yesterday it will submit its proposals to the 1942 legislature and ask further laws to exempt municipalities from liability for damage caused by blackouts and from injuries or deaths of civilian defense workers.

New York city reportedly is to have an air-raid alarm system similar to London's, already having bought 70 of 500 sirens of a type which starts with a low growl.

ries to a shriek and slows to another growl.

Sidney, in Delaware county, stages a practice blackout tonight, and clean civilian defense authorities plan a Cattaraugus county-wide trial in which the city would be the control point, relaying the alarm to outlying points by telephone. No date has been set for the latter.

Financial and Commercial

ther recoveries spotted today's stock market but trends eventually turned a bit indefinite along with the war and business news.

Gains of fractions to a point or so were well distributed in the forenoon among steels, motors, rails, coppers, aircrafts, rubbers, mail orders and specialties. These were reduced or replaced with declines in same cases near the final hour. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 1,200,000 shares.

There were numerous slow-downs during the attempted upswing but sizable blocks of low-priced stocks, apparently in the tax-selling class, kept volume relatively large.

The fact the market recently had fallen to a new bottom since the spring of 1938, brokers said, brought in some short covering and new buying on the theory a technical "correction" was in the offing. Bulletins from Far Eastern battle lines were sufficiently depressing to offset optimistic reports from Russia and Africa.

Bonds were mixed and commodities generally a shade better. Stocks attracting support at one time or another included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Santa Fe, Great Northern, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Western Union, Allied Chemical, American Smelting and Phelps Dodge.

American Can and Union Pacific touched new lows for the move. Hesitant were Westinghouse, U. S. Gypsum, Standard Oil (N. J.), American Telephone, Johns-Manville and International Nickel.

Nazis Abandon Finns; British Get Airport at Derna

Soviets and on the sands of North Africa, a new and important blow to the Rome-Berlin aggressors was obliquely dealt by Spain.

Spain Stays Non-Belligerent

Blasting Axis hopes that Spain might now enter the war in the world-wide alignment of the democracies against the dictators, the Spanish government announced that Spain would maintain her position of non-belligerency.

In effect, this means that Spain has flatly rejected pressure for the passage of German troops through Spain for an attack on Gibraltar and a short-cut to seizure of North and West African bases.

Meanwhile, Portugal's position in the conflict awaited clarification as rumors circulated in Lisbon that Britain had twice in recent weeks demanded the Azores from Portugal.

Dispatches from Bern, Switzerland, indicated that newspapers in both Germany and Italy were drumming up propaganda to swing Portugal into the Axis camp, with the Nazi-Fascist press expressing alarm lest the allied seizure of Portuguese Timor in the South Pacific be followed by anti-Axis occupation of the Azores and Cape Verde Islands in the Atlantic.

The Berlin correspondent of the Swiss newspaper, La Suisse, said Germany was anxiously awaiting Portugal's attitude on the Timor move for its bearing on the situation of the Atlantic islands.

On the Russian war front, Soviet dispatches said that the Red armies had reached the approaches of Ruzza, 50 miles due west of Moscow, and that "the rate of our offensive is growing noticeable."

The Russians reported heavy blows were being struck at German rearward communications to disorganize Hitler's already headlong retreat from Moscow.

Trains, trucks and buses were subjected to the pounding and the Soviet information bureau announced the destruction by Red aviation December 17 of about 750 trucks loaded with troops and supplies, and a number of buses, while 10 trains were reported set on fire and upwards of 6,000 men annihilated or dispersed.

Soviet ground forces, furthermore, were said in Moscow to have destroyed 106 German trucks, an ammunition dump and a military supply depot on a single day on the Moscow front.

Altogether, said the Communist party newspaper Pravda, the Russians recaptured 138 more villages on the eastern front.

The military expert of Hitler's own newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, a Lieut. Col. Soldan, was quoted by a Swiss paper as admitting that the Russian soldiers equalled—and even surpassed in some cases—the Germans. Soldan said Germany had underrated the Russian army economy and war industries, the Swiss dispatch added.

President Asks Governors Release Employment Units

Agencies Would Be Under Federal Authority to Ease Post-War Adjustments

Washington, Dec. 19 (AP)—President Roosevelt said today he had asked governors of the states and territories to transfer immediately to the federal employment service all separate state and territorial employment agencies.

Mr. Roosevelt added that the governors were giving full cooperation to the war effort.

The requested transfer, the President told his press conference, is designed to bring about utilization to the fullest possible extent of all man and woman power to increase the output of war materials.

Last week, he said, he had considered summoning all the governors to Washington but there was such complete cooperation and understanding that this would be waste motion.

Mr. Roosevelt read to the conference a statement from a committee of the governors' conference and the council of state governments emphasizing the need of correlated fiscal action among the national, state and local governments to combat inflation, expedite defense production and prepare for a post war adjustment.

The governors' committee advised Mr. Roosevelt they had adopted
